EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Lynch Law in West Virginia.

CINCINNATI, Jan 24.—The Gazette's special says Edward Williams who with Mrs Meeling was arrested for the murder of the latter's husband was taken from the jail last night at Barbersville West Virginia and hanged by the mob. The parties were assured by the minister that sufficient evidence of their guilt had been obtained. The jail was surrounded by a mob of excited people, but both denied complicity in the act although the minister continued in prayer with them and asking for a confession. The mob forced the keys from the jailer and took Williams out and placed him under a tree in the courtyard with a rope around his neck standing on a barrel. He made a confession and expressed the hope that the crowd might obtain God's forgiveness for their crime as he had for his. He declared he was happily started on his journey home to heaven. He died after fifteen minutes of terrible agony. Mrs Meeling was then brought out standing her in front of the dead murderer the crowd asked for her confession. She said Williams had been her paramour for three years. She had been trying for the past three months to poison her husband, without success. That Williams struck Meeling on the head with an ax, while he was asleep, on Wednesday night afterwards cutting his throat. She assisted in destroying the evidences of the murder, and in burying Meeling. She accused herself of being the cause of the murder but begged piteously for her life. Though the feeling was very strong against her, and the crowd unanimously voted for her execution, no man could be found who would put the rope around the woman's neck and she was returned to jail. Williams' body was still cut down by the authorities this morning.

Council to Investigate Beecher Organized.

NEW YORK, Jan 24.—The Sunday Mercury announces that a council composed of the most eminent Congregational divines has been organized to inquire into the fitness of Beecher to remain in the ministry. About 40 churches have been invited to send clerical and lay delegates. The principal movers are said to be Dr Leonard Bacon and Mr Bartlett, of Chicago, Dr Dexter of Boston, in a letter from Bartlett, declares all investigations will be open and the testimony ample. Plymouth church has been invited to send some one to represent her pastor. The witnesses are likely to be Mrs. Moulton, Mr. Bradshaw, Florence Tilton and Mrs Stanton. This statement is for what it is worth.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Phillips Willis & Co, fur and commission merchants, have failed. They owe $ and will pay 20 per cent.

McKee Trial at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Jan 24.—Although it was generally understood that the greater part of the day would be taken up to legal argument, the attendance upon the trial of Wm. McKee, for alleged complicity with the whisky ring, far surpassed the accommodations of the court room. The jurors remained at their places under the guard of the deputy marshal. Upon the opening of the court Judge Krum commenced the argument for the defense, citing a number of authorities to show the incompetency of the testimony of accomplices, uncorroborated. Special reference was made to the case of the United States vs. Wm Fullerton tried in New York in 1870 where the evidence was mainly that of accomplices and where the court intervened after the testimony was taken and ordered the acquittal of defendant. Judge Krum charged that the court could not be satisfied with the evidence before it, that McKee's connection with the ring had been shown and asked that he be allowed to go no further.

Ex-Tammany Chair-Maker's Residence Burned.

NEW YORK, Jan 24.—The magnificent residence of James Ingersoll the chair maker of the Tweed ring, near South Norfolk Connecticut, burned this afternoon. Loss $100,000 insured for $50,000.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The President not Likely to Furnish all the Cuban Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—As the President when he transmitted the documents in relation to the affairs between the United States and Spain to the Senate on Friday deemed it proper at this time to include the correspond nce between our government and foreign governments on the interference question, it is not probable, from what can be ascertained that he will furnish the correspondence in accordance with the call of the House, made on Monday.

Inequalities in the Pay of Officers to be Examined.

Several members of the House committee on appropriations are looking into the inequalities which prevail in the army relating to retired officers. They say they can see no reason why some officers disabled in the late war shall be retired on full rank with corresponding pay, while others, who are of as high rank and were similarly maimed or disabled, should be receiving only thirty dollars a month. They will make an effort to remedy this inequality, and are also looking into the question of [illegible] to officers who turn over their supplies for [illegible].

The Centennial Appropriation.

The Congressional friends of the Centennial mill regard the appropriation bill regard its passage as certain, though not by as large a majority as at first anticipated.

Reduction of Expenditures.

While all the House committees are striving to make large reductions of expenditures in all branches of the public service and will doubtless report in all their appropriation bills it is not probable the House will be seconded by the Senate to the full extent unless it is plainly made to appear that the public service will be largely benefited by the reduction. A large number of the members of Congress express themselves opposed to the disturbance of the tariff certainly not to any important extent.

Reception at the Spanish Minister's.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The Spanish minister and wife gave a brilliant reception last night. The guests included the diplomatic corps the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the supreme court, Secretary Fish and other members of the cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Strong Efforts against the Proposed Reductions.

Strenuous efforts are making among officers of the army to frighten the military committee out of the contemplated sweeping reduction. As soon as the project for cutting down the army was made known, every channel by which influence could be brought to bear was filled with protests and hints to deter Congress from action. Every paper in the country throughout the country in sympathy with the army officers or friends of army officers began to cry out about the iniquity of a Confederate Congress cutting down the ranks of an army that had beaten them. In spite of all this however the work for reduction have gone on steadily and if [illegible] military committee [illegible] put its shoulder to the wheel. [illegible] Republican and chairman of the military committee has completed the steps towards a reduction of the army [illegible] to cut off extra allowances and [illegible] officers [illegible] are not on active duty in the [illegible] to commute these officers to monthly or yearly pay [illegible] and the law prescribed in [illegible] by officers [illegible] is a [illegible] of very handsome [illegible] of the army.

Bill for Reduction of Army Expenses.

CHICAGO, Jan. [illegible] the Tribune's Washington special says General [illegible] the bill for reduction of army expenses will [illegible] introduced to day. [illegible] the matter of pay quarters and forage [illegible] however [illegible] of officers [illegible] and all are cut off on [illegible] proper. This alone will leave the general of the army $17,000, the lieutenant general $11,000, the major generals, $7,500 [illegible] the present law does not give to general and lieutenant general horses, and the number allowed a major general by the present bill is reduced from five to [illegible] and a brigadier general is allowed but two. [illegible] officers are cut [illegible] two and all mounted officers below rank of major are allowed but one horse. The pay of colonel, [illegible] lieutenant is left unchanged, and for the [illegible] that is, [illegible] these officers [illegible] after twenty years of service receive more than $4,500. The pay of second lieutenants however is reduced to $1,500 for a mounted officer and $1,400 for one not mounted. The reason for this reduction upon second lieutenants is, that with a few exceptions they are young officers unmarried and fresh from the academy and the sums indicated are deemed sufficient for the short period during which they serve in that rank as at the outside their service does not extend beyond five years. The existing second lieutenant's pay amounts to $1,600 a year. In the matter of commutation of quarters all the officers are reduced one half. The item of fuel is unchanged. On the item of forage the saving is $1,600,000. This matter and the reduction in the number of horses allowed officers, also applies to the marine corps. As to all the other reductions in the way of commutation in the matter of details of officers for staff duty, a very important change and a considerable saving is effected. At present it is possible for a lieutenant and even a second lieutenant to be detailed upon the staff of a general officer and to receive the pay and allowances of a colonel and such instances actually exist. By the terms of this bill all the officers on the staff are to receive only the pay and allowance of their real rank. The saving in this item alone on the staff of general officers is $25,000.

In the matter of reducing the army, the committee as yet does not see its way clear to any great cutting down of the force. It is possible that the number of regiments may be reduced by two but a careful study of the subject by the members of the committee of both parties does not seem to indicate that even this will be thought advisable.

Hawaiian Treaty Measures.

The Chicago Times Washington special says the necessary legislation for carrying into effect the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian Islands now under consideration in ways and means committee meets with favor from several members of the committee though the latter has not taken any formal action in regard to it. The proposed law, which will provide for an interchange of commodities will in some degree result in a deduction of the revenue by a loss of duties paid on importations from those islands.

Action of Select Committee on the Texas Border.

The Indian Commissioner Before the Appropriation Committee.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs was before the House committee on appropriations to-day, asking for $216,000, required as deficiency, owing to extraordinary issues of supplies made to support the numerous bands of Sioux at Red Cloud agency in the conference held by the late commissioner to treat for the cession of the Black Hills. The supplies have become nearly exhausted.

Extension of Time for the Northern Pacific Railway.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The Senate committee on railroads to-day agreed to recommend the passage of a bill to extend the time for completing the N. P. R R. with amendments limiting the extension of time for the main lines to a period of 8 years instead of 10. The section proposing to repeal the law requiring the company to pay the costs of surveying and conveyancing will be omitted from the bill as reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The President nominated Thomas R. Mosely, pension agent, San Francisco; Oak Adolphus Waltz register of the land office Carson Nevada.

CONGRESSIONAL.

House.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The Speaker called on the States for bills, under which call, the following bills were introduced and referred:

By Hale amendatory of the bankrupt law.

By Wood of New York to provide for the suspension of the sinking fund until 1880 also to amend the act authorizing the funding of the national debt.

By Chittenden to fund legal tenders of the United States.

By Whitehouse, for the funding of legal tender notes into 40 year 4 per cent gold bonds to the amount of $100,000,000 at a rate not to exceed $3,000,000.

By Woodworth—Granting bounties to the heirs of soldiers in the late war who entered for less than a year, or who were killed or died by reason of wounds received in service.

By McFarland—For the appointment of three additional agents to investigate and adjust claims pending before the Southern claims commissioner.

By Hurlburt—To provide for the cheap transportation of freight between the Atlantic, Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

By Morrison preparatory to redemption of U S notes and resumption of specie payment. The bill directs the Secretary of the Treasury to retain coin in the treasury until it amounts to 30 per cent. of the outstanding legal tender notes and in the meantime it suspends the resumption bill until after the 1st of January 1879. It also requires national banks to return the coin interest received on its bonds deposited to secure circulation to the amount of their legal reserves and such sum in addition thereto as with their legal reserves shall equal 40 per cent. of their circulation which amount of 10 per cent. the banks are to retain as security for the redemption in coin of their circulation. It also repeals the legal tender provision from the time the banks have 30 per cent. of their circulation.

By Williams of Michigan, a constitutional amendment which prohibits senators and Republicans from soliciting appointments or removals from office, and providing for civil service commission.

By Wilson of Idaho a constitutional amendment providing that the term of representatives shall commence the 1st of January, instead of the 4th of March.

Wright from the Judiciary committee reported without amendment the bill declaring the true intent and meaning of the Union Pacific Railroad acts. It provides that none of these acts shall be construed to authorize any subsidy or land grant to the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Company or the central branch of the Union Pacific Company for any extension of the road in excess of 100 miles next to the Missouri river. Placed on calendar.

By Lapham fixing the first Monday of January as the time for the meeting of Congress; also a constitutional amendment proposing to change the commencement of the Presidential term from March 4th to May 1st.

By Ward to protect life on steamships boats and sailing vessels; also to provide means of cheap transportation on inland waters.

By Holton to abolish the tax on spirits distilled from fruits.

By Vance, for the transfer of the eastern band of Cherokees to jurisdiction of North Carolina.

By Waddell, to [illegible] the rates of postage on [illegible] also for the purchase of S. F. B. Morse's picture for the House of Representatives.

By [illegible] to reduce the tax on tobacco and whisky.

By Herford, to restore to the pension rolls of pensioners of the war of 1812 the names of persons struck off for disloyalty.

By Crounse of Nebraska declaring all lands heretofore granted certain railroad companys subject to local taxation; also to reduce passenger rates over the railroad bridge at Omaha.

By Kidder—Granting lands for the university of Dakota.

By Jacobs—For the restoration to the public domain of lands in Washington Territory to the Northern Pacific railroad.

Willard [illegible] resolution instructing the committee on civil service reform to inquire what legislation is necessary to prevent the solicitation of appointments [illegible] and removals therefrom by senators and members of Congress.

By Strait extending the provisions of the act of the 1st June 1871 for the relief of settlers on railroad lands.

Kelly offered the following resolution which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to report to this House what amount of specie was in the treasury [illegible] designating the amount of gold and of silver [illegible] under the provisions [illegible] 1875 [illegible] the date of the several purchases [illegible] for that purpose.

Stormy Weather.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 23.—The storm this evening was very severe. It was raining in torrents and blowing a gale from the south. The sea was heavy on the city front, but no damage is reported to the shipping as all precautions have been taken to avoid disaster. The streets were deserted and the attendance at the churches was very thin but few caring to brave the inclemency of the weather. The city has been unusually quiet all day not half a dozen arrests having been made and those only for drunkenness.

The French Plays on the Subject of the American Revolution.

PARIS, Jan 23.—The jury in Michael's competition for plays on the subject of the American Revolution awarded no first prize fearing the public would not ratify their decision. The two pieces to which a second prize was awarded the jury agree in pronouncing remarkable works possessing great merit. That named "A Great Citizen" is the joint production of Armand and Arotist Laillie, the latter being the pseudonym of the well known poet Francois Coppee. The play "The New World" is by Villiers Leslie Adam and "Free America" by Adolphe Michael. A fourth production entitled "The Patriots" is written by an American who takes the name of Fernando Armand. It is described as full of movement and life but deviates from the programme laid down. It is believed it will have great success.

Bright Addresses his Constituents.

LONDON, Jan 24.—John Bright and his colleagues in Parliament Dixon and Muntz addressed their constituents in Birmingham last night. Bright in his speech passed over the question of the slave circular issued by the Admiralty. The matter was not as easy as was supposed. He questioned however whether it was necessary for the government to meddle with it. He hoped they would explain that affair and the Suez canal purchase satisfactorily. Bright confined himself almost entirely to replying to Lord Derby's speech at Edinburgh. He attacked the law of primogeniture and monopolization of land by a few great landholders. He argued that the possessors of the land should be empowered to bequeath it as they pleased. Referring to the future policy of the Liberals he advocated the assimilation of county to borough franchise. He pointed to Birmingham with 60,000 electors returning 3 members of Parliament while there were 70 members, whose united constituencies numbered less than 60,000. A redistribution of seats was necessary. Bright concluded as follows:

What I ask you to undertake is to strengthen and confirm your own power by extending your franchise and rights to your fellow countrymen in the counties. Give the freedom you enjoy to those who are now excluded. Give them also, the freedom of the soil on which they live. A vote of confidence in the representatives of Birmingham in Parliament was carried by acclamation. Two amendments were moved one condemning the actions of the members in regard to direct representation of labor and another denouncing their inaction on the Tichborne question, but the movers were silenced by uproar. Bright explained that he disapproved of putting up candidates for Parliament as especially representing workingmen because, having throughout his career aimed to get rid of classes and to have the people work as one nation he thought it inopportune, now that object was attained, to revive class divisions.

THE HOOSAC TUNNEL.—The Springfield Republican says: B. N. Farren is employing about 25 men in the tunnel in excavating and arching 90 yards of rock are taken out per day and from 45,000 to 50,000 brick are laid. The arches are 20 inches thick with pilasters of brick outside once in six feet, 4,800 feet of his contract had been done by December 1 and from 3,000 to 4,000 remained. Of this Chief Engineer Frost believes that less than half can be finished by July 1, but "if not too much interruption is made by the trains," can be done by October 1. The work in the tunnel, even in the old days of mining, was never more picturesque than now. The men are divided into two shifts, working 11 hours each, are provided with more flaring lights and their entrance into the murderous old cavern as the gangs are changed is a spectacle of surpassing brilliance. The old question of the ventilation of the tunnel just now returns in a serious form. It is practically found that there never is current enough to clear the tunnel from end to end, nor, [illegible] can there ever be with the grade of [illegible] feet to the summit at the central shaft which breaks the direct draft. With an east wind and the draft of the central shaft half of the tunnel is comfortably aired but the western part is stagnant smoky and almost [illegible]. The grade of the Hoosac tunnel [illegible] we believe as [illegible] from the central shaft to either portal and the present chief engineer admits that the grade of 26 feet was made much steeper than is ordinarily necessary for the water to run off, and together with trains of 100 cars tends [illegible] to snap the connecting links after the train has reached the level of the summit unless the engineer checks his engine when coming on to the down grade. [illegible] insist that this grade enhanced by the defect of ventilation will seriously affect the operation of the line. There being no outlet for the smoke and soot from the blasting and engines in one half of the tunnel it settles upon the rails as lubricating material so that much more of a load can be drawn to the tunnel than through it with the same power. This compels sanding the rails always under; and an expert says that the combination of bad grade and ventilation in the mountain is equal to sixty feet grade outside of it. Another claims that but half as much can be drawn through the tunnel as on railroads outside.

STRANGE FACES IN CONGRESS.

[Editorial Correspondence Philadelphia Times.]

WASHINGTON, Jan 6.—It is well now and then to turn back to the shattered landmarks of the past and take note of the ravages of Time's relentless scythe. A full decade has written its records since I have been more than the casual and hasty visitor in Washington. For its whirl of fashion, its struggles of ambition, its superficial, fleeting honors, and its unsatisfying, unreal, and often fatal fruition of brightest hopes, I have never had inclination. When war came, when fathers were smitten, when mothers were widowed and bereaved, when children were orphaned with helplessness added to sorrow, duty to others, which was then duty to country, made me familiar with the inner sanctuaries of power and brought me regretfully close to the idols we worshipped. There were faces and forms visible everywhere in the Capital city then which were familiar to all. The sad countenance of Lincoln was unveiled to the people, and his ungraceful gait was recognized on the street as he hurried to and from the army headquarters, the War and the Navy and the State Departments, unconscious of the gaze that followed him. The nervous step of the great War Minister might then be seen as he sought the counsels of his chief, or sent a holiday soldier to the front by a wave of the hand or a toss of the head. He fashioned armies as if by magic, and hurled them upon each other to reap in the terrible harvest of death. It was life for country, and he paused not in the sacrifice until rebellious armies perished. The polished grace and stately form of Chase, with his genial, intellectual sunshine and unselfish patriotism, ruled among the money changers, and taught them that national honor and credit are the first attributes of national life. Stevens, "grand, gloomy and peculiar," fearless to a fault, able above all his fellows, and always faithful even though not always wise was the commoner of the Republic—the one position that was never attained unearned. Wilson sensible, practical and safe rather than profound a wise counsellor in the new issues for which the statesmanship of the world furnished no precedents, was the leader who calmed the conflicts of passion and ambition and recalled men to fidelity. Seward the brilliant, plodding, hopeful dreamer whose visions vanished only to nerve him for the long and bloody conflict was the diplomatist of his age, and mastered the scienced schools of statecraft of the civilized world. These, with scores of others upon whom the nation leaned in its sorest trial, have almost ceased to be missed in this ever changing panorama of political greatness. I looked down upon the Senate to-day, and was startled as I turned from chair to chair only to meet with strange faces. But I had forgotten that since the coming of those men in 1861 well nigh half a generation has passed from the earth and the sands of the glass run as ceaselessly in high places as among the lowly and unknown. Of all the men who will be remembered as of those who builded wiser than they knew for the disenthrallment of popular government, but a few remain, and they are bowed and furrowed by the waste of years. Hamlin is still in his place, but when I recall that twenty years have hastened by since, in the old Senate chamber of Clay, and Webster, and Calhoun, and Buchanan, and Benton, he proclaimed the revolution of his State to the coming supremacy, it is not strange that his eye is dimmed and his step unsteady. Cameron answers Senate roll call as he did a third of a century ago, but he approaches his four score years with visible sunset shadows gathering about him. Anthony is yet here, but withered by the frosts of many winters, and Sherman, younger than his fellow veterans, has lost the fire and elasticity of his brilliant leadership in the House two decades ago. And there the chapter ends. All all of those who made up the memorable Senate of 1861, save the few I name, have passed from the scenes of their greatness and few are among the living to see the fruition of their work. The younger Bayard worthily fills his father's chair and the Confederate warriors Gordon and Ransom sit face to face with Bruce the dusky bondman, who reached the full stature of citizenship through the flame of battle that discomfited them. The carpet bagger still lingers over the desolation he has wrought in the commonwealths he mocks in the name of freedom, and shames the Senate with each returning day, as he struts about it awkwardly crowned with its withered chaplets. One by one they fall unwept as the reconstructed insurgents take their places, and step by step, like the advance of a great army the Democrat and the Independent answer where were heard the voices of men who had got [illegible] in blind or corrupt partisanship. Two speak for the land of steady habits, one sits beside Conkling, another is the [illegible] of Cameron, another fills the place of Wade, another foreshadows the fate of Morton, another tells of the revolution in Michigan, another reflects the protests of Missouri, another bears testimony that Wisconsin will not bow to the party yoke, another tells the story of Williams overthrow in the far North west, and from the Golden State comes the fearless [illegible] of Booth. Of all the original Lincoln administration only Cameron Welles and Blair survive, and Cameron fitly stands alone in the party line. Such are the changes of fifteen years, such the lessons of human ambition.

I turned to the House to note how time and the mutations of political conflicts had there done their sleepless work. As it is approached every avenue to every door is crowded by anxious throngs. New people gaze at you as you pass, and the nurest of hope deferred writes its story on the strange faces which greet you. They come from every clime—the emptying of the long muzzled Democratic oxen who have trodden the party corn and come for rewards, the New England Yankee, the Western Hoosier and Sucker, the sturdy disciple of Jackson from the Keystone State, the far Northwesterner, who have heard the music of the Oregon, the rollicking adventurer from the sun-set side of the Rocky Mountains, the subdued Confederate, broken in purse and struggling for bread, the negro, jostled from post to pillar, as he seeks some menial place as a reward for political defection from his race, and, among them all, forgetful woman crowding toward the new altar of power to plead the cause of selfishness or necessity—these are the pictures on the outer walls. And inside there is a sea of unfamiliar faces. Here and there one is to be seen like a plume in a multitude on the whitened locks of Banks or Blaine, or Garfield, or Kelley, or Lawrence, or Wood or the former Federal, later Confederate, and now again Federal Representatives Ashe and Faulkner are noted. Randall next to Kelly the oldest member in continuous service has been kindly dealt with by the flight of years. The seat of the ex Confederate Vice President Stephens is vacant, and it will remain so until its weeds of woe shall tell that the long halt has come to a life of strange vicissitude. The "man and brother" is also among them as the bright yellow faces of Rainey and Small testify. Robbins comes after nearly a quarter of a century of retirement to learn anew the duties of legislation in a new hall under a new order of things that bears every impress of revolution and without one of his old associates for companionship. Of all the members of the House not half a score witnessed the first throes of the new departure of 1861, and few have experience in the councils of the nation. A pale apparition wasted form [illegible] in the Speaker's chair and calls the man of God to the needed prayer, and next the face [illegible] bombast and buncombe [illegible] Kerr's one [illegible] under the pressure and Holman is called to take his place, and the battle of political [illegible] on each dreaming that forty millions of people are standing in awe and reverence for his achievement in passing some clap trap resolution, to wring the withers of his opponents and point an editorial for a village organ. By and bye the keen zeal of the hustings will give way to sober duties and then we shall see what manner of statesmen the political revolution of 1875 has given to the country.

It is stated that the recent visit of Bishop Dupanloup to Rome was for the purpose of urging the Sacred Council to make a saint of Joan of Arc the Maid of Orleans.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

CHRISTMAS, NEW YEAR'S AND THE SMALL BOY—MOODY, SANKEY AND WANNAMAKER.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 9, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Everybody is jubilant over the glorious winter weather we are having. The week which closed with the noise and confusion attendant on Christmas, opened with sunshine and such warm, balmy weather, as made all Chestnut street bloom with handsome women and gaudy colors. The few bright days which preceded Christmas were followed, however, by a week of foggy weather, which included, in its chilling embrace, the whole of the holidays, but now that the week's festivities are over the warm sun is again smiling on us through the days, and the full round moon looks down on us at night in a way that is calculated to start a sentimental fool into poetry. The holidays, perhaps, brought with them as large a sum total of happiness as usual. They were a harvest time for the dealers in toys and fancy goods, whose mercenary smiles have hardly yet relaxed,—for the shivering women and little girls who usually drive such a precarious trade on the street corners, in the sale of five-cent tid-bits of evergreen or button-hole boquets—and for the popular man who shipped those evergreen firs from away down in Maine to do duty here as Christmas trees. No one below has kept a record of the motley variety of presents by which the tens of thousands were made happy. We will suppose that all the little girls received a doll and are now enjoying them in their own quiet way, but we know from sad experience that the boys were all presented with tin horns, and that in their happy enjoyment of them they became the instruments of the most intense bodily torture to the rest of mankind. With the "Boy of the Period" the capacity and opportunity to blow a tin horn to raise an infernal racket, and to make himself disagreeable generally, seems the highest conception of human happiness. The Philadelphia boy is simply one of a class, and a limited knowledge of the "boy nature" will justify the venture that the tin trumpet has been sounding within the past two weeks through every city and hamlet, on hill-top and in valley, and through every mountain gorge from the Atlantic to the Pacific. If the man who invented tin horns hasn't already gone to his long home he will consult his own bodily comfort by not mentioning the circumstance until time has mollified the temper of an infuriated populace. But despite the misguided efforts of the small boys, Philadelphia didn't become Pandemonium until New Year's Eve, and then riot reigned supreme. Everybody flocked towards Independence Square. Converging towards that spot for blocks around, all Philadelphia, save those left at home to look out for the lights and the small children, gathered to witness the ushering in of the Centennial year. Those who should know say Philadelphia never witnessed such a sight before. The picture was simply a conglomeration of bunting, of noise, of brilliant lights, and of human anatomies squeezed into half the space consistent with comfort or agreeable to the demands of nature. The masqueraders and the tin trumpets had the field and though at midnight salutes were fired and the bells pealed forth from all the churches, little could be heard but the discordant babble of human voices. This New Year's "jamboree" has set the conservative Philadelphian to thinking and made him sad and nervous. He wants to know why people can't be jubilant and patriotic in a more orderly way—and if people are so noisy now what will they be next summer—and isn't the world spending too much money in gunpowder and bell-metal—and finally compresses the whole burden of his heart in a sigh of disappointment, with a reluctantly expressed doubt as to whether after all the Centennial is likely to prove a "bonanza."

MOODY AND SANKEY.

There was perhaps at 12 o'clock on that night but one quiet place in all Philadelphia, and that was within the Depot Tabernacle of Messrs Moody and Sankey, where, while all was uproar and confusion without, the New Year found thousands at silent prayer. These meetings have moved smoothly along for the past two months with no apparent flagging of the interest and according to the statements of the Evangelists the results have been most satisfactory. The Sunday attendance has been especially large, so much so that separate services for the exclusive benefit of men and women respectively have been deemed a necessity. The Sunday evening services have been devoted to men exclusively and there is always a jam at the door at least an hour before the opening of services, the converging crowds at the doorway pressing in at the first signal for opening at the imminent risk of life and limb, and once in rushing helter skelter like so many sheep, as if their very lives depended on their securing a seat near the platform. Here, week after week, thousands have repaired who have before never seen the inside of a church from one year's end to another, and high toned ladies who have found it a task to occupy the cushioned seats of the most aristocratic churches have sacrificed their pride and are content to await for one or two hours the opening of services on those cheap, wooden chairs, entirely innocent of paint or varnish, gazing meanwhile with serene satisfaction at the "open timber roof" of the old freight depot, and the bare, white walls only relieved with scripture mottoes, in great big letters of red paint. But the old depot, rough and open as it is, has proved to be admirably adapted to the purposes for which it has been used in all the essentials of heat, light and ventilation, and those who have attended the services have had no cause to murmur at the accommodations. The great attraction is the evangelists themselves, as the small attendance at the special meetings where they are not present demonstrates. A description of them would be deemed superfluous by those who have read the newspapers for the past year. The great marvel is to find wherein lies Moody's power. Few find anything remarkable in his sermons while everybody criticises his bad grammar and patent lack of culture. Yet he makes no attempt to be sensational, but on the contrary severely criticises "those sensational preachers of eloquence and power, whose religion has no blood in it." There is nothing impressive in this delivery and he seems always to be attempting to compress a two hours' sermon into fifteen minutes. He is painfully prompt, beginning "on time" and making every exercise follow the preceding in quick succession. Neither is his presence imposing notwithstanding the flattering engravings of him which are printed yet he is a man of great apparent strength, with short neck, broad shoulders a profuse beard of red whiskers but with something about his face which bespeaks the bull dog, an impression which is strengthened by his dictatorial manner. In none of his distinguishing features is there a trace of that personal magnetism wherein is usually supposed to lie the chief power of the popular platform speaker and this great secret must be assumed to lie principally in his intense earnestness. But Sankey is the people's favorite having the advantage of a handsome face with that wonderfully rich and clear voice, while the few remarks which he occasionally makes indicate him to be a better talker than Moody. Their work here has been generally viewed with favor and they receive the encouragement of a column's notice every morning from most of the leading dailies. The platform, from time to time has been honored with the presence of the President and leading members of the cabinet and both houses of Congress and other men of note, both in the State and nation. They have at all times been supported by a formidable array of divines. Philadelphia with all her array of ministerial talent, has fewer than we might expect of those who boast a national reputation. We look in vain for a Beecher, a Talmage, a Hall, a Chapin a Tyng or a Frothingham though she may have men of more solid talents whose work and fame, while less popular, may not be so evanescent.

The only man she has, whose fame is world-wide is Bishop Simpson, and he is one of there peripatetic Methodists who has no abiding place, and who only stops here occasionally over night. The two most efficient marshals at Moody's command are laymen,

JOHN WANNAMAKER AND GEORGE H. STUART.

The latter is better known generally, having made a national reputation as one of the officers and leading spirits of the Christian commission organized during the late war, but in this city Wannamaker seems to take the lead and under a different combination of circumstances would make a more acceptable and successful evangelist than Moody himself, in that while he is as thoroughly in earnest, he is a man of much more culture. He is a light, wiry, smooth shaven man, perhaps not forty years of age, impetuous and energetic, whose capital—greater than that of many a millionaire—is his energy, his system and a fair fund of common sense. He is best known as a clothing merchant and as superintendent of the Bethany Mission Sunday school. He began business here a few years ago at the bottom of the ladder but with a push and energy that overcame all obstacles, made a fortune, and is now the head of what claims to be the largest clothing house in America. He is one of those progressive men who reads the newspapers and never lags behind. When the President and a delegation of Congressmen comes to the city to visit the Centennial grounds, he honors the occasion with a brilliant display in honor of the event. When a Vice President dies, Wannamaker's establishment is made sombre with crape from top to bottom. When a Centennial year is ushered in, his profuse display of bunting and gaudy colors rivals in taste and brilliancy every other, and yesterday—the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans—he capped the climax by having a fort of cotton batting built in his windows, mounted with cannon, and in the sodded foreground placed a large engraving of "Old Hickory," with here and there a pile of cannon balls and a stack of bristling bayonets. Everybody who visits Philadelphia is likely to hear of Wannamaker in some way. You can approach the city by no route without being reminded every where in flaming posters and by huge lettering in paint and whitewash that the best place to secure bargains in clothing is at Wannamaker & Brown's. He seems to have made clothes and Mission schools a special study, and has been equally successful in both, as the Bethany Mission school—universally known as Wannamaker's Sunday school—indicates. Perhaps there is less apparent need for mission schools in Philadelphia than in almost any other large city, but even here there are certain quarters where a missionary out of a job might find his hands full. These quarters are naturally conductive for squalor, poverty and vice, and the dirt and filth of the tangible sort that [illegible] itself in the most disgusting odors. Mission schools are not particularly to the taste of the classes who throng such districts, and they tell of a good old Quaker in the city who took up an abandoned field and met the warnings and misgivings of his friends with the proposition that he would pay the [illegible] to attend, agreeing to pay 50 cents to each scholar at the end of every month. This was an improvement on the old gospel, which, [illegible] furnished without money and without price, was not understood to pay a worldly dividend. The prejudices of the neighborhood were not so deeply seated against mission schools as to be proof against such tactics, and the success of the school was assured from the start, the attendance especially on pay-day being remarkably good. The Bethany school exceeds, in point of numbers, any other in the city, and those who are not at the doors promptly at the hour of opening will find the wide galleries full and return home disappointed. The origin of the school was in a class of sixteen scholars taught by John Wannamaker in a tavern near the site of the present building. From this small beginning it has developed into an army of 2,800, who are now housed in a large and magnificent chapel; a building most admirably arranged; a school manned by a most efficient corps of officers and [illegible] ers. This is one of Wannamaker's proudest works; but there are some who tell us that when he makes those unctious prayers at Sunday school his whole heart is really down in that clothing establishment on Chestnut street. This may be so, but have we a right to assume it without question? Anyway, they do say that when John Wannamaker recommends a coat it always proves to be a good one, and perhaps we would be in better business in giving men credit for the good they do and desisting from this miserable habit of questioning the motives of others. This is my budget of religious intelligence, and, with these few lines John Wannamaker & Co. are turned over to the tender mercies of a discriminating public.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Lynch Law in West Virginia.

CINCINNATI, Jan 24.—The Gazette's special says [illegible] Williams who with Mrs Meeling was arrested for the murder of the latter's husband was taken from the jail last night at Barbersville West Virginia and hanged by the mob. The parties were assured by the minister that sufficient evidence of their guilt had been obtained. The jail was surrounded by a mob of excited people, but both denied complicity in the act although the minister continued in prayer with them and taking for a confession. The mob forced the keys from the jailer and took Williams out and placed him under a tree in the courtyard with a rope around his neck standing on a barrel. He made a confession and expressed the hope that the crowd might obtain [illegible] for their crime as he had for his. He declared he was happily started on his journey home to heaven. He died after fifteen minutes of terrible agony. Mrs Meeling was then brought out. Placing her in front of the dead murderer the crowd called for her confession. She said Williams had been her paramour for three years. She had been trying for the past three months to poison her husband, without success. That Williams struck Meeling on the head with an ax, while he was asleep, on Wednesday night, afterwards cutting his throat. She assisted in destroying the evidences of the murder, and in burying Meeling. She accused herself of being the cause of the murder but begged piteously for her life. Though the feeling was very strong against her and the crowd unanimously voted for her execution, no man could be found who would put the rope around the woman's neck and she was returned to jail. Williams' body was [illegible] cut down by the authorities this morning.

McKee Trial at St. Louis.

ST LOUIS, Jan. 24.—Although it was generally understood that the greater part of the day would be given to legal argument the attendance upon the trial of Wm McKee for alleged complicity with the whisky ring, far surpassed the accommodations of the court room. The jurors remained at their hotel under the guard of the deputy marshal. Upon the opening of the court Judge Krum continued the argument for the defense citing a number of authorities to show the incompetency of the evidence of accomplices, uncorroborated. Special reference was made to the case of the United States vs. Fullerton tried in New York in 18[illegible] where the evidence was merely that of accomplices and where the court intervened after the testimony was in and ordered the acquittal of defendant. Judge Krum charged that the court could not be satisfied from the evidence before it that McKee's connection with the ring had been shown and asked that he be allowed to go no further.

The Tammany Chair-Maker's Residence Burned.

The President not Likely to Furnish all the Cuban Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—As the President when he transmitted the documents in relation to the affairs between the United States and Spain to the House on Friday deemed it proper at this time to include the correspondence between our government and foreign governments on the interference question it is not probable from what can be ascertained, that he will furnish the correspondence in compliance with the call of the House made on Monday.

Inequalities in the Pay of Officers to be Examined.

Several members of the House committee on military affairs are looking into the inequalities which prevail in the army relating to retired officers. They say they can see no reason why some officers retired in the late war shall be retired on full rank with corresponding pay, while others who held as high rank and were similarly maimed or disabled should be receiving only thirty dollars a month. They will make an effort to remedy this inequality, and are also looking into the question of [illegible] to officers who turn over their supplies for [illegible].

The Centennial Appropriation.

The Congressional friends of the Centennial million and a half appropriation bill regard its passage as certain though not by as large a majority as at first anticipated.

Reduction of Expenditures.

While all the House committees are striving to make large reductions of expenditures in all branches of the public service and will doubtless report in all their appropriation bills. It is not probable the House will be seconded by the Senate to the full extent unless it is plainly made to appear that the public service will be largely benefited by the reduction. A large number of the members of Congress express themselves opposed to a disturbance of the tariff certainly not to any important extent.

Reception at the Spanish Minister's.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The Spanish minister and [illegible] gave a brilliant reception last night. The guests included the Diplomatic corps, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, Secretary Fish and other members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Strong Efforts against the Proposed Reductions.

Strenuous efforts are making among officers of the army to frighten the military committee out of the contemplated sweeping reduction. As soon as the project for cutting down the army was made known, every channel by which influence could be brought to bear was filled with protests and hints of [illegible] from action. Every paper in the [illegible] throughout the country in sympathy with the army officers or friends of army officers began to howl about the iniquity of a Confederate [illegible] cutting down the ranks of an army that had [illegible] them. In spite of all this however the army reduction have gone on steadily and the military committee [illegible] put its shoulder to the wheel. Gen. Banning [illegible] Republican [illegible] completed the steps towards a [illegible] of the army [illegible] cut off extra allowance and [illegible] officers not [illegible] these officials to [illegible] and the law [illegible] drawn by officers of [illegible] but [illegible] great abuse and [illegible] a very handsome sum [illegible] treasury.

Bill for Reduction of Army Expenses.

CHICAGO, Jan [illegible].—The Times' Washington special says [illegible] of army expenses [illegible] the matter of pay [illegible] reductions, however [illegible] troops [illegible] officers all economical [illegible] are cut off [illegible] proper. This [illegible] will leave the general [illegible] army $17,400 [illegible] generals, $[illegible] law does [illegible] horses and the number allowed [illegible] by the present bill reduced from [illegible] and a brigadier general is allowed but two [illegible] officers are all [illegible] below rank of major [illegible] of colonel [illegible] is left [illegible] after twenty years of service receive more than $1 00. The pay of second lieutenants however [illegible] not mounted. The reason for this [illegible] that with [illegible] exceptions they are young officers unmarried and fresh from the academy and the sum indicated are deemed sufficient for the short period during which they serve in that rank as at most their service does not extend beyond [illegible] years. [illegible] first lieutenants pay amounts to $1600 a year. In the matter of commutation of [illegible] all the officers [illegible] one half. The [illegible] the saving is $1,000,000. This matter and the reduction in the number of horses allowed officers also applies to the marine corps. As to all the other reductions in the way of commutation in the matter of details of officers for staff duty a very important change and a considerable saving is effected. At present it is possible for a lieutenant [illegible] second lieutenant to be detailed upon the staff of a general officer and to receive the pay and allowances of a colonel and such instances actually exist. By the terms of this bill all the officers on the staff are to receive only the pay and allowance of their real rank. The saving in this item alone on the staff of general officers is $25,000.

In the matter of reducing the army the committee as yet does not see its way clear to any great cutting down of the force. It is possible that the number of regiments may be reduced by two, but a careful study of the subject by the members of the committee of both parties does not seem to indicate that even this will be thought advisable.

Hawaiian Treaty Measures.

The Chicago Times Washington special says the necessary legislation for carrying into effect the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian Islands now under consideration in ways and means committee meets with favor from several members of the committee though the latter has not taken any formal action in regard to it. The proposed law, which will provide for an interchange of commodities will in some degree result in a deduction of the revenue by a loss of duties paid on importations from those islands.

The supplies have become nearly exhausted.

Extension of Time for the Northern Pacific Railway.

WASHINGTON, Jan 24.—The Senate committee on railroads to-day agreed to recommend the passage of a bill to extend the time for completing the N. P. R. R. with amendments limiting the extension of time for the main line to a period of 8 years instead of 10. The section proposing to repeal the law requiring the company to pay the costs of surveying and conveyancing will be omitted from the bill as reported.

By Hurlbut—To provide for the cheap transportation of freight between the Atlantic, Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

By Morrison preparatory to resumption of U. S. notes and resumption of specie payment. [illegible] It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to retain coin in the treasury until it amounts to 30 per cent. of the outstanding legal tender notes and in the meantime it suspends the resumption bill until after the 1st of January 18[illegible]. It also requires national banks to retain the coin interest received on its bonds deposited to secure circulation to the amount of their legal reserves and such [illegible] in addition thereto as with their legal reserves shall equal 30 per cent. of their circulation which amount of 30 per cent. they are to retain as security for the redemption in coin of their circulation. It also repeals the legal tender provision from the [illegible] banks have 30 per cent. of their circulation.

By Williams of Michigan, a constitutional amendment which prohibits senators and Republicans from soliciting appointments or removals from office, and providing for civil service commission.

By Wilson of Idaho a constitutional amendment providing that the term of representatives shall commence the 1st of January instead of the 4th of March.

Wright from the Judiciary committee reported without amendment, the bill declaring the true intent and meaning of the Union Pacific Railroad acts. It provides that none of these acts shall be construed to authorize any subsidy or lands, and to the Hannibal and St Joseph Railroad Company or the central branch of the Union Pacific Company for any extension of the road in excess of 100 miles next to the Missouri river. Placed on calendar.

By Lapham fixing the first Monday of January as the time for the meeting of Congress; also a constitutional amendment proposing to change the commencement of the Presidential term from March 4th to May 1st.

By Ward to protect life on steamships, boats and sailing vessels; also to provide means of cheap transportation on inland waters.

By [illegible] to abolish the tax on spirits distilled from fruits.

By Vance for the [illegible] of the [illegible] Cherokees to jurisdiction of North Carolina.

By Waddell to classify and equalize the rates of postage on [illegible]; also for the purchase of [illegible] picture for the House of Representatives.

By [illegible] to reduce the tax on tobacco and whisky.

By Herford to restore to the pension rolls [illegible] soldiers of the war of 1812 the names of persons stricken off for disloyalty.

By Counce of Nebraska declaring all lands heretofore granted certain railroads [illegible] subject to State taxation; also to reduce passenger fares over the railroad bridge at Omaha.

By Kidder granting lands for the University of Dakota.

By Jacobs for the restoration to the public domain of lands in Washington Territory to the Northern Pacific railroad.

The French Plays on the Subject of the American Revolution.

PARIS, Jan 23.—The jury in Michaelis competition for plays on the subject of the American revolution awarded no first prize, fearing the public would not ratify their decision. The two pieces to which a second prize was awarded the jury agree in pronouncing remarkable works possessing great merit. The first named "A Great Citizen" is the joint production of Arsaud and Arolus [illegible], the latter being the pseudonym of the well known poet Francois Coppee. The play "The New World" is by Villiers Leslie Adam and "Free America" by Adolphe Michael. A fourth production entitled "The Patriots" is written by an American who takes the name of Fernand Arnaud. It is also said as full of movement and [illegible] but deviates from the programme laid down. It is believed it will have great success.

Bright Addresses his Constituents.

LONDON, Jan [illegible].—John Bright and his colleagues in Parliament Dixon and Muntz addressed their constituents in Birmingham last night. Bright in his speech passed over the question of the slave circular issued by the Admiralty. The matter was not as easy as was supposed. He questioned however whether it was necessary for the government to meddle with it. He hoped they would explain that affair and the Suez canal purchase satisfactorily. Bright continued in a similar strain to replying to Lord Derby's speech at Edinburgh. He attacked the law of primogeniture and monopolization of land by a few great land holders. He argued that the possessors of the land should be compelled to bequeath it as they pleased. Referring to the future policy of the Liberals he advocated the assimilation of county and borough franchise. He pointed to Birmingham with 60,000 electors returning 3 members of Parliament while there were 78 members whose united constituencies numbered less than 60,000. A redistribution of seats was necessary. Bright concluded as follows:

What I ask you to undertake is to strengthen and confirm your own power by extending your franchise and rights to your fellow countrymen in the counties. Give the freedom you enjoy to those who are now excluded. Give them also the freedom of the soil on which they live.

A vote of confidence in the representatives of Birmingham in Parliament was carried by acclamation. Two amendments were moved one condemning the actions of the members in regard to direct representation of labor and another denouncing their inaction on the Tichborne question but the movers were silenced by uproar. Bright explained that he disapproved of putting up candidates for Parliament as especially representing workingmen because having throughout his career aimed to get rid of classes and to have the people work as one nation he thought it inopportune, now that object was attained, to revive class divisions.

Highway Robbery.

MARYSVILLE, Jan 23.—Silas Canady who runs a daily line of stages between this city and Brown's valley, was stopped by highwaymen Friday evening at 8 o'clock 3 miles west of the valley and robbed of $715 coin belonging to W. Shaw which he received at Wells Fargo's office in this city. Mr Canady says he was halted at a point on the road where he is frequently stopped by parties, who have small orders to fill and he suspected nothing wrong until a masked man thrust a shot gun into his face and ordered him to get down from the wagon.

Terrific Wind Storm.

A terrific wind and rain storm prevails here this evening, it is the heaviest that has occurred for years. Heavy snows are reported to have fallen in the surrounding hills and mountains. It is now raining on the snow. Should the rain continue until the snow is melted a heavy freshet may be expected.

THE HOOSAC TUNNEL.—The Springfield Republican says: B N Farren is employing about [illegible] men in the tunnel in excavating and arching. 90 yards of rock are taken out per day and from 45,000 to 50,000 brick are laid. The arches are 20 inches thick with [illegible] courses of brick outside once in six feet. 4,800 feet of his contract had been done by December 1 and from [illegible]000 to 1,000 remained. Of this Chief Engineer Frost believes that less than half can be finished by July 1, but if not too much interruption is made by the [illegible] it can be done by October 1. The work in the tunnel even in the old days of mining was never more picturesque than now. The men are divided into two shifts working 11 hours each and are provided with more flaring lights and the entrance into the murky cavern as the gangs are changed is a spectacle of surpassing brilliance. The old question of the ventilation of the tunnel just now returns in a serious form. It is practically [illegible] that there never is current enough to [illegible] the tunnel from end to end, for, it is [illegible] the summit at the central shaft which breaks the direct draft. With an [illegible] of the draft of the central shaft [illegible] is constantly [illegible] smoky and [illegible] The grade of the [illegible] [illegible] This compels sanding the rails always unless [illegible] and an expert says that the combination of [illegible] grade and ventilation in the mountain is equal to sixty feet grade outside of it; another claims that but half as much can be drawn through the tunnel as on roads outside.

STRANGE FACES IN CONGRESS.

[Editorial Correspondence Philadelphia Times.]

WASHINGTON, Jan 6.—It is well now and then to turn back to the shattered landmarks of the past and take note of the ravages of Time's relentless scythe. A full decade has written its records since I have been more than the casual and hasty visitor in Washington. For its whirl of fashion, its struggles of ambition, its superficial, flitting honors, and its unsatisfying, unreal, and often fatal fruition of brightest hopes, I have never had inclination. When war came, when fathers were smitten, when mothers were widowed and bereaved, when children were orphaned with helplessness added to sorrow, duty to others which was then duty to country, made me familiar with the inner sanctuaries of power and brought me regretfully close to the idols we worshipped. There were faces and forms visible everywhere in the Capital City then which were familiar to all. The sad countenance of Lincoln was unveiled to the people and his ungraceful gait was recognized on the street as he hurried to and from the army headquarters, the War and the Navy and the State Departments, unconscious of the gaze that followed him. The nervous step of the great War Minister might then be seen as he sought the counsels of his chief, or sent a holiday soldier to the front by a wave of the hand or a toss of the head. He fashioned armies as if by magic and hurled them upon each other to reap in the terrible harvest of death. It was life for country, and he paused not in the sacrifice until rebellious armies perished. The polished grace and stately form of Chase, with his genial intellectual sunshine and unselfish patriotism, ruled among the money changers and taught them that national honor and credit are the first attributes of national life. Stevens' grand, gloomy and peculiar, fearless to a fault, able above all his fellows and always faithful even though not always wise was the commoner of the Republic—the one position that was never attained unearned. Wilson, sensible, practical and safe rather than profound, a wise counsellor in the new issues for which the statesmanship of the world furnished no precedents, was the leader who calmed the conflicts of passion and ambition and recalled men to fidelity. Seward the brilliant plodding, hopeful dreamer whose visions vanished only to nerve him for the long and bloody conflict, was the diplomatist of his age and mastered the scented schools of statecraft of the civilized world. These with scores of others upon whom the nation leaned in its sorest trial, have almost ceased to be missed in this ever changing panorama of political greatness. I looked down upon the Senate to-day, and was startled as I turned from chair to chair only to meet with strange faces. But I had forgotten that since the coming of those men in 1861 well nigh half a generation has passed from the earth and the sands of the glass run as carelessly in high places as among the lowly and unknown. Of all the men who will be remembered as of those who builded wiser than they knew for the disenthrallment of popular government, but a few remain and they are bowed and furrowed by the waste of years. Hamlin is still in his place, but when I recall that twenty years have hastened by since, in the old Senate chamber of Clay, and Webster, and Calhoun, and Buchanan, and Benton he proclaimed the revolution of his State to the coming supremacy, it is not strange that his eye is dimmed and his step unsteady. Cameron answers Senate roll call as he did a third of a century ago, but he approaches his four score years with visible sunset shadows gathering about him. Anthony is yet here but withered by the frosts of many winters, and Sherman, younger than his fellow veterans, has lost the fire and elasticity of his brilliant leadership in the House two decades ago. And there the chapter ends. All of those who made up the memorable Senate of 1861 save the few I name have passed from the scenes of their greatness and few are among the living to see the fruition of their work. The younger Bayard worthily fills his father's chair and the Confederate warriors Gordon and Ransom sit face to face with Bruce, the dusky bondman, who reached the full stature of citizenship through the flame of battle that dissolved them. The carpet bagger still lingers over the desolation he has wrought in the commonwealths he mocks in the name of freedom and shames the Senate with each returning day, as he struts about it awkwardly crowned with its withered chaplets. One by one they fall unwept as the reconstructed insurgents take their places, and step by step like the advance of a great army the Democrat and the Independent answer where were heard the voices of men who forgot unity in blind or corrupt partisanship. Two speak for the land of steady habits: one [illegible] another is the [illegible] of Cameron, another fills the place of Wade, another foreshadows the fate of Morton, another tells of the revolution in Mississippi, another reflects the protests of Minnesota, another bears testimony that Wisconsin will return to the party yoke, another tells the story of Williams' overthrow in the far North-west and from the Golden State comes the lesson from the fall of Booth. Of all the original Lincoln administration only Cameron, [illegible] and Blair survive, and Cameron only stands alone in the party line. Such are the changes of fifteen years; such the lessons of human ambition.

I turned to the House to note how time and the mutations of political conflicts had there done their sleepless work. As it is approached every avenue to every door is crowded by anxious throngs. New people gaze at you as you pass, and the unrest of hope deferred writes its story on the strange faces which greet you. They come from every clime—the emptying of the long muzzled Democratic oxen, who have trodden the party corn and come for rewards, the New England Yankee, the Western Hoosier and bucher, the sturdy disciple of Jackson from the Keystone State, the far Northwesterner, who have heard the music of the Oregon, the rollicking adventurer from the sunset side of the Rocky Mountains, the subdued Confederate broken in purse and struggling for bread, the negro jostled from post to pillar as he seeks some menial place as a reward for political devotion from his race and, among them all, forgotten woman crowding toward the new altar of power to plead the cause of selfishness or necessity. These are the pictures on the outer walls. And inside there is a sea of unfamiliar faces. Here and there one is to be seen like a plume in a multitude as the whitened locks of Banks or Blaine or Garfield, or Kelley, or Lawrence or Wood or the former Federal, later Confederate and now again Federal representatives Ashe and Faulkner are noted. Randall next to Kelley, the oldest member in continuous service has been kindly dealt with by the flight of years. The seat of the ex Confederate Vice President Stephens is vacant and it will remain so until its words of woe shall tell that the long halt has come to a life of strange vicissitude. The [illegible] and brother [illegible] is also among them, as the bright yellow faces of [illegible] and Small tell. [illegible]

It is stated that the recent visit of Bishop Dupanloup to Rome was for the purpose of urging the Sacred College to make a saint of Joan of Arc the Maid of Orleans.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

CHRISTMAS NEW YEAR'S AND THE SMALL BOY—MOODY, SANKEY AND WANNAMAKER.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 9, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Everybody is jubilant over the glorious winter weather we are having. The week which closed with the noise and confusion attendant on Christmas, opened with sunshine and such warm, balmy weather, as made all Chestnut street bloom with handsome women and gaudy colors. The few bright days which preceded Christmas were followed, however, by a week of foggy weather, which included, in its chilling embrace, the whole of the holidays, but now that the week's festivities are over the warm sun is again smiling on us through the days, and the full round moon looks down on us at night in a way that is calculated to start a sentimental fool into poetry. The holidays, perhaps, brought with them as large a sum total of happiness as usual. They were a harvest time for the dealers in toys and fancy goods, whose mercenary smiles have hardly yet relaxed—for the shivering women and little girls who usually drive such a precarious trade on the street corners, in the sale of five cent tid-bits of evergreen or button hole boquets—and for the popular man who shipped those evergreen firs from away down in Maine to do duty here as Christmas trees. No one below has kept a record of the motley variety of presents by which the tens of thousands were made happy. We will suppose that all the little girls received a doll and are now enjoying them in their own quiet way but we know from sad experience that the boys were all presented with tin horns, and that in their happy enjoyment of them they became the instruments of the most intense bodily torture to the rest of mankind. With the "Boy of the Period" the capacity and opportunity to blow a tin horn to raise an internal racket, and to make himself disagreeable generally, seems the highest conception of human happiness. The Philadelphia boy is simply one of a class, and a limited knowledge of the "boy nature" will justify the venture that the tin trumpet has been sounding within the past two weeks through every city and hamlet, on hill top and in valley, and through every mountain gorge from the Atlantic to the Pacific. If the man who invented tin horns hasn't already gone to his long home he will consult his own bodily comfort by not mentioning the circumstance until time has mollified the temper of an infuriated populace. But despite the misguided efforts of the small boys, Philadelphia didn't become Pandemonium until New Year's Eve, and then riot reigned supreme. Everybody flocked towards Independence Square. Converging towards that spot for blocks around, all Philadelphia save those left at home to look out for the lights and the small children, gathered to witness the ushering in of the Centennial year. Those who should know say Philadelphia never witnessed such a sight before. The picture was simply a conglomeration of bunting, of noise, of brilliant lights, and of human anatomies squeezed into half the space consistent with comfort or agreeable to the demands of nature. The masqueraders and the tin trumpets had the field and though at midnight salutes were fired and the bells pealed forth from all the churches, little could be heard but the discordant babble of human voices. This New Year's "jamboree" has set the conservative Philadelphian to thinking and made him sad and nervous. He wants to know why people can't be jubilant and patriotic in a more orderly way—and if people are so noisy now what will they be next summer—and isn't the world spending too much money in gunpowder and bell-metal—and finally compresses the whole burden of his heart in a sigh of disappointment, with a reluctantly expressed doubt as to whether after all the Centennial is likely to prove a "bonanza."

MOODY AND SANKEY.

There was perhaps at 12 o'clock on that night but one quiet place in all Philadelphia and that was within the Depot Tabernacle of Messrs Moody and Sankey, where, while all was uproar and confusion without, the New Year found thousands at silent prayer. These meetings have moved smoothly along for the past two months with no apparent flagging of the interest and according to the statements of the Evangelists the results have been most satisfactory. The Sunday attendance has been especially large so much so that separate services for the exclusive benefit of men and women respectively have been deemed a necessity. The Sunday evening services have been devoted to men exclusively and there is always a jam at the door at least an hour before the opening of services, then converging crowds at the doorway pressing in at the first signal for opening at the imminent risk of life and limb and once in, rushing helter skelter like so many sheep, as if their very lives depended on their securing a seat near the platform. Here, week after week, thousands have repaired who have before never seen the inside of a church from one year's end to another, and high toned ladies who have found it a task to occupy the cushioned seats of the most aristocratic churches have sacrificed their pride and are content to await for one or two hours the opening of services on those cheap, wooden chairs, entirely innocent of paint or varnish, gazing meanwhile with serene satisfaction at the open timber roof of the old freight depot and the bare, white walls only relieved with scripture mottoes in great big letters of red paint. But the old depot rough and open as it is, has proved to be admirably adapted to the purposes for which it has been used in all the essentials of heat, light and ventilation, and those who have attended the services have had no cause to murmur at the accommodations. The great attraction is the evangelists themselves, as the small attendance at the special meetings where they are not present demonstrates. A description of them would be deemed superfluous by those who have read the newspapers for the past year. The great marvel is to find wherein lies Moody's power. Few find anything remarkable in his sermons while everybody criticises his bad grammar and patent lack of culture. Yet he makes no attempt to be sensational but on the contrary severely criticises those sensational preachers of eloquence and power, whose religion has no blood in it. There is nothing impressive in his delivery, and he seems always to be attempting to compress a two hours sermon into fifteen minutes. He is painfully prompt, beginning "on time" and making every exercise follow the preceding in quick succession. Neither is his presence imposing notwithstanding the flattering engravings of him which are printed, yet he is a man of great apparent strength, with short neck, broad shoulders, a profuse beard of red whiskers, but with something about his face which bespeaks the bull dog; an impression which is strengthened by his dictatorial manner. In none of his distinguishing features is there a trace of that personal magnetism wherein is usually supposed to lie the chief power of the popular platform speaker and this great secret must be assumed to lie principally in his intense earnestness. But Sankey is the people's favorite having the advantage of a handsome face with that wonderfully rich and clear voice, while the few remarks which he occasionally makes indicate him to be a better talker than Moody. Their work here has been generally viewed with favor and they receive the encouragement of a column's notice every morning from most of the leading [illegible]. The platform from time to time has been honored with the presence of the President and leading members of the cabinet and both houses of Congress and other men of note, both in the State and nation. They have at all times been supported by a formidable array of [illegible]. Philadelphia with all her array of ministerial talent, has fewer than we might expect of those who boast a national reputation. We look in vain for a Beecher, a Talmage, a Hall, a Chapin, a Tyng, or a [illegible] though she may have men of more solid talents whose work and fame while less popular may not be so evanescent. The only man she has whose fame is world-wide is Bishop Simpson, and he is one of these peripatetic Methodists who has no abiding place and who only stops here occasionally over night. The two most efficient marshals at Moody's command are laymen,

JOHN WANNAMAKER AND GEORGE H. STUART.

The latter is better known generally, having made a national reputation as one of the officers and leading spirits of the Christian commission organized during the late war, but in this city Wannamaker seems to take the lead and under a different combination of circumstances would make a more acceptable and successful evangelist than Moody himself, in that while he is as thoroughly in earnest, he is a man of much more culture. He is a light, wiry, smooth shaven man, perhaps not forty years of age, impetuous and energetic, whose capital—greater than that of many a millionaire—is his energy, his system and a fair fund of common [illegible]. He is best known as a clothing merchant and as superintendent of the Bethany Mission Sunday school. He began business here a few years ago at the bottom of the ladder, but has, with a push and energy that overcame all obstacles, made a fortune, and is now the head of what claims to be the largest clothing house in America. He is one of those progressive men who reads the newspapers and never lags behind. When the President and a delegation of Congressmen comes to the city to visit the Centennial grounds, he honors the occasion with a brilliant display in honor of the event. When a Vice President dies, Wannamaker's establishment is made sombre with crape from top to bottom. When a Centennial year is ushered in, his profuse display of bunting and gaudy colors rivals in taste and brilliancy every other, and yesterday—the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans—he capped the climax by having a fort of cotton batting, built in his windows, mounted with cannon, and in the sodded foreground placed a large engraving of "Old Hickory," with here and there a pile of cannon balls and a stack of bristling bayonets. Everybody who comes to Philadelphia is likely to hear of Wannamaker in some way. You can approach the city by no route without being reminded everywhere in flaming posters and by huge lettering in paint and whitewash that the best place to secure bargains in clothing is at Wannamaker & Brown's. He seems to have made clothes and Mission schools a special study, and has been equally successful in both, as the Bethany Mission school—universally known as Wannamaker's Sunday school—indicates. Perhaps there is less apparent need for mission schools in Philadelphia than in almost any other large city, but even here there are certain quarters where a missionary out of a job might find his hands full. These quarters are naturally conspicuous for squalor, poverty and vice, and that dirt and filth of the tangible sort that asserts itself in the most disgusting odors. Mission schools are not particularly to the taste of the classes who throng such districts, and they tell of a good old Quaker in the city who took up an abandoned field and met the warnings and misgivings of his friends with the proposition that he would pay the people to attend, agreeing to pay 50 cents to each scholar at the end of every month. This was an improvement on the old gospel, which, though furnished without money and without price, was not understood to pay a worldly dividend. The prejudices of the neighborhood were not so deeply seated against mission schools as to be proof against such tactics, and the success of the school was assured from the start, the attendance—especially on pay-day—being remarkably good. The Bethany school excels, in point of numbers, any other in the city, and those who are not at the doors promptly at the hour of opening will find the visitors' galleries full and return home disappointed. The origin of the school was in a class of sixteen scholars taught by John Wannamaker in a tavern near the site of the present building. From this small beginning it has developed into an army of 2,800, who are now housed in a large and magnificent chapel, a building most admirably arranged; a school manned by a most efficient corps of officers and teachers. This is one of Wannamaker's proudest works but there are some who tell us that when he makes those unctious prayers at Sunday school his whole heart is really down in that clothing establishment on Chestnut street. This may be so, but have we a right to assume it without question? Anyway, they do say that when John Wannamaker recommends a coat it always proves to be a good one, and perhaps we would be in better business in giving men credit for the good they do and desisting from this miserable habit of questioning the motives of others. This is my budget of religious intelligence, and, with these few lines John Wannamaker & Co are turned over to the tender mercies of a discriminating public.

Death of Gen. Miller.

OLYMPIA, Jan 24.—Gen W. W. Miller, an old and respected resident of this coast, died to-day at his residence, after an illness of a few days' duration. He was contemplating a visit to San Francisco, and made a trip to Victoria, but failed to connect with the California steamer. He returned ill and experienced a rapid decline which ended in death.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 25, 1876.

TAXES ACCORDING TO POPULATION.

Among the amendments to the constitution of the United States proposed by members of the present Congress is one introduced by Judge Reagan, of Texas, providing that direct taxes shall be levied upon the States and the District of Columbia in proportion to the amount of property they contain, and not, as at present, in the ratio of their population to that of the whole Union. The ability of a State to pay taxes depends not upon the number of people in it, but upon the amount of its productive property. The present system of levying the direct taxes is the result of a compromise between the representatives of the North and of the South. The South insisted that in settling the basis of representation the negro slaves should be counted as part of the population, but that they should not be counted in settling the basis for levying the direct taxes. To this the North objected. It was finally agreed that two-thirds of the negroes should be counted in both cases. As there were scarcely any direct taxes levied before the late war, this arrangement gave the South great advantage in Congress, without having to pay anything for it.

But now the case is very different. The emancipation has added about a million to the representative population of the South, without increasing its ability to pay taxes. In fact, the wealth of the South has been greatly diminished. While its proportion of the direct taxes has increased, its ability to pay has largely decreased. In South Carolina, these taxes are a great, an almost intolerable burden. The total value of property in that State in 1860, was $548,138,754, and in 1870, $208,146,989. The population in 1860, on which representation in Congress and direct taxes would be computed, was 542,657, while in 1870 it was 705,606. Therefore, in 1860, there was an average of $1,006 44 per representative person. In 1870 there was but $295 per representative person.

In 1860, South Carolina was liable to pay one-fifty-eighth of any direct tax, while in 1870 she was liable to pay one-fifty-fourth. The percentage of taxation on the property in South Carolina was greater in 1870 than in 1860, while the property itself was fifty per cent. less. South Carolina is liable to pay just twice as much percentage on property as Massachusetts. The case of South Carolina is however the worst in the South. Other States are better off; but still the inequality of the tax the South would have to pay, as compared with that which would be paid by the North is very considerable. The New York Tribune says: The Southern States had, in 1870, less than one-fifth of the wealth of the whole Union, while they had more than one-third of the population, so that, should a direct tax now be levied, the South with one-fifth of the property would have to pay one-third of the tax—the same amount of tax, on an average, would have to be paid on sixty cents in the South as on one dollar in the North. From these facts it will be seen that the Southern representatives will make a pretty strong case in favor of Judge Reagan's amendment.

AN UNUSUAL SEASON.

Probably there has never been a season in the history of Oregon in which the farmers had so little opportunity to get their crops sown for the following year, as this fall and winter. The first rains of the fall were so slight as not to prepare the ground for ploughing; and were followed with a long dry autumn in which no work could be done. Then came the great storm of November, lasting into December, with scarcely a day's respite. Such rains as astonished the oldest inhabitant fell almost constantly. The ground was too wet to work. From dust it became mud. And mud it has been ever since, except when, as at present, the temperature has been too low for mud. Now, with the mercury never so low as twenty-five degrees above zero, we are having it too cold for farm work—a temperature below the freezing point.

Of course under this state of facts, little has been done in the way of sowing for the next summer's harvest. Farmers are, some of them, discouraged. But there is time yet. There is no cause to fear that no opportunity will yet be given for their work. And let those who are experiencing their first winter in Oregon, not be disheartened. This, as we remarked, is the first season of thirty or more in which farmers have had so little opportunity to prepare their fields. If it were a total failure it would be only what occurs in other countries one year in thirty.

A NEWSPAPER IN THE WHISKY RING.

The whisky trials at St. Louis still afford new and interesting reading. The trial of McKee, of the Globe-Democrat, brings to light much that was not developed in the former trials, and shows that the distillers and rectifiers and government officers were not the only classes who had a hand in the crooked business, but that they thought it necessary to take into their confidence and into the conspiracy those who controlled the leading paper of the Republican party in the city. The witnesses who testify to facts identifying McKee with the frauds are most, if not all, persons who were themselves deeply involved in the infamous business, and their testimony is, therefore, to be scrutinized very closely; but upon close scrutiny it loses nothing of its convincing force. The circumstantial particularity with which the facts are detailed, and the manner in which the different witnesses corroborate each other on points disconnected from each other, carries conviction, in spite of the prepossession of the reader against condemning a man on the testimony of persons who admit themselves to have been accomplices in the crime with which he stands charged. It is rendered about as certain as the imperfections of human evidence allow anything in the affairs of men to be made, that the Globe-Democrat was a mem- of the whisky ring.

LETTER FROM OLYMPIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The snow on the way from Tenino to Olympia is about four inches deep. The stage road is very rough, with frozen ruts and broken ice. The cold Saturday and Sabbath night closed some of the holes, but left the road but little better. Teams and travelers suffer alike inconvenience. We learn to prize the comfortable N. P. R. R. car and to wish for its extension to Olympia, and to Portland also. The raw and strong northwest wind on the Sound last night reminded us of the northeast storms on the New England coast. The mercury at Tenino, however, was only about 27° at 8 o'clock this A. M. The fear was felt that the Columbia would be covered with floating ice. On meeting the train at Cowlitz station, 12 M., passengers said, "You will get through to-night, but hardly will any one get above Kalama to-morrow." We pressed through several ice floes on the way to St. Helens which partially stopped the steamer's wheel and troubled the engineer. Coming up the slough, which was clear of ice, we avoided large and almost continuous fields of it in the main Columbia. Capt. G. Ainsworth expressed doubts of his ability to get the steamer through to-morrow, especially if the night is cold. The day has been clear and warm in the sun, but wintry on the lee side. The snow has called out the coasters, old and young, the elite and the less known, all enjoying the rare treat of a slide. One lady from California had never seen coasting on sleds before.

Some say that the Governor was out as youthful and joyous as any of his children, being one among them in their recreations, as every parent should be. Some little boys were sliding on Sabbath evening; and here parents should interpose, and honor the Lord's day. The ponds are reported frozen, and skaters will be out in force to-night.

Olympia has a truly village appearance, with many attractions and many pleasant families. Every one hopes that its business prospects will grow brighter this year and next, and reward the people for their outlay and patient waiting to make it one of the choicest abodes on the Sound. The marts of business, the homes of the people, the schools and the churches all need the stimulus of a new and hopeful prospect of growth. With the revival of railroad building, connecting Oregon with the Eastern States, W. T., will gain equally, and Olympia will share with all other towns this great benefit. When all of our moneyed men decide to invest their funds in home enterprises instead of entrusting them to California bankers to promote the home enterprises of that State, our region will begin to prosper.

LETTER FROM TILLAMOOK.

TILLAMOOK BAY, Jan. 17, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Believing that your widely circulated journal is devoted to the interest of the whole of Oregon, without distinction of place or men, and that you will cheerfully publish anything beneficial to the community, permit me to say through your columns a few words in relation to Tillamook county. There are resources here to be developed, which when known, will not only command the attention of those seeking agricultural or grazing lands, but also the capitalist. No place on the Pacific coast presents to the farmer, dairyman or stock raiser of limited means inducements superior to those offered by Tillamook. To the man of capital, who is desirous of investing in the lumbering business, Tillamook Bay offers great inducements; and I further state, without fear of contradiction by any one knowing the facts, that this county possesses as much, if not more timber of a superior quality, than can be found in any coast county between the Columbia river and San Francisco, Coos county not excepted. We have an abundance of the first quality of yellow fir, white spruce, cedar, larch, hemlock and alder. Port Orford or white cedar, we have not. The entrance to Tillamook Bay is good, superior to that of Coos Bay, as it has a straight entrance, and 13½ feet of water on the bar at dead low tide, vide "the Coast Pilot" Kinslow survey. Vessels drawing from 12 to 16 feet can enter the bay as far as "Eastabrooks' Point," distant about 3 miles from the entrance. Vessels drawing 7 or 7½ can come up to the town of Tillamook, a distance of about 15 miles. There is not in my opinion a better opening for a first or second class steam sawmill on the coast. When you take into account, the fact, that there are five rivers emptying into Tillamook Bay, whose banks for a long distance, are teeming with the kinds and quality of timber I have enumerated, little apprehension should be entertained of exhausting the timber for a long time.

We have at present but one vessel plying between here and Portland—the Katie L. Heron—but to-morrow will be launched by Capt. Wm. Terwilliger of your city, a fine sloop, built here by Mr. Joseph Contin of San Francisco, and intended expressly for the Tillamook, Astoria and Portland trade. We have three stores, and by the first of the ensuing month, we expect another to be opened by Messrs. Higgins & Co., by their agent, E. P. Howard, Esq., lately from Michigan, who is at present in your city making his purchases for this market. He will ship his goods by the sloop or the steamer Gen. Canby.

Should this communication prove acceptable I will endeavor in my next to give you some account of our annual exports and trade to and with Portland, as there are a great many in Oregon who know nothing of us or about us, or that there is such a place on the map as

TILLAMOOK.

An elegant statue has recently been erected in Dublin in honor of Henry Grattan, the great Irish orator and statesman. As was natural, all Dublin was present, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. It was to Henry Grattan's splendid abilities that Ireland owed its liberation from the odious law by which England held her in the position of a conquered country. In token of the estimation in which the Irish people held Mr. Grattan, a sum of one hundred thousand pounds was raised by them and offered to him. At first he absolutely refused to take it; but after having been strongly urged to do so by his friends he accepted one half of it, and used it in the purchase of an estate. This, however, seemed to him to be an especial retaining fee to engage his services for the party alone, whose members had raised and given him the money, and it seemed to fetter his future liberty of action. Henry Grattan was a small man, of no remarkable appearance. His voice was harsh and shrill. But, notwithstanding these disadvantages, he was a splendid orator of the highest class. At the age of thirty-six he had gained, by his speeches on the Irish question, a celebrity as a speaker which was unequalled, or at least unexcelled, by that of any other man of his time. Mr. Grattan died in 1820, after a long, successful and honorable life.

Mail communication with the Dalles has been suspended for the present, owing to the impossibility of navigating the Columbia river, on account of floating and fixed ice. The mail contract of the O. S. N. Company provides for a daily service by steamer between this city and the Dalles. Last year when the river closed, the company transported the mail at considerable extra expense, to the Dalles overland. The Postoffice Department refused to pay the company for the extra outlay. In consequence of this, the company, as we have been informed, have resolved, this year, to do no more than they are required to do by the terms of their contract. So we will probably have to wait for a mail from the Dalles until the river opens and the steamers can make their customary trips.

Sam Bowles values the old unadulterated Saxon vernacular above "Webster's Dictionary," and thinks that the best slang of the people is better than the innovations of the learned progressionists. Sam Bowles is occasionally a sensible man.

Twenty-six arrivals and departures at Coos Bay in one week.

TAXES ACCORDING TO POPULATION

Among the amendments to the constitution of the United States proposed by members of the present Congress is one introduced by Judge Reagan of Texas, providing that direct taxes shall be levied upon the States and the District of Columbia in proportion to the amount of property they contain, and not, as at present in the ratio of their population to that of the whole Union The ability of a State to pay taxes depends not upon the number of people in it but upon the amount of its productive property The present system of levying the direct taxes is the result of a compromise between the representatives of the North and of the South The South insisted that in settling the basis of representation the negro slaves should be counted as part of the population, but that they should not be counted in settling the basis for levying the direct taxes To this the North objected It was finally agreed that two thirds of the negroes should be counted in both cases As there were scarcely any direct taxes levied before the late war this arrangement gave the South great advantage in Congress, without having to pay anything for it

But now the case is very different. The emancipation has added about a million to the representative population of the South, without increasing its ability to pay taxes In fact the wealth of the South has been greatly diminished While its proportion of the direct taxes has increased, its ability to pay has largely decreased In South Carolina, these taxes are a great, an almost intolerable burden The total value of property in that State in 1860, was $548,138,754, and in 1870 $208,116,989 The population in 1860 on which representation in Congress and direct taxes would be computed was 542 057 while in 1870 it was 705,606 Therefore, in 1860, there was an average of $1,006 ⅓ per representative person In 1870 there was but $29[illegible] per representative person.

In 1860, South Carolina was liable to pay one fifty eighth of any direct tax, while in 1870 she was liable to pay one fifty fourth The percentage of taxation on the property in South Carolina was greater in 1870 than in 1860, while the property itself was fifty per cent less South Carolina is liable to pay just twice as much percentage on property as Massachusetts The case of South Carolina is however the worst in the South Other States are better off, but still the inequality of the tax the South would have to pay as compared with that which would be paid by the North is very considerable The New York Tribune says The Southern States had, in 1870, less than one-fifth of the wealth of the whole Union, while they had more than one-third of the population, so that, should a direct tax now be levied, the South with one-fifth of the property would have to pay one-third of the tax—the same amount of tax, on an average, would have to be paid on sixty cents in the South as on one dollar in the North. From these facts it will be seen that the Southern representatives will make a pretty strong case in favor of Judge Reagan's amendment.

AN UNUSUAL SEASON

Probably there has never been a season in the history of Oregon in which the farmers had so little opportunity to get their crops sown for the following year as this fall and winter The first rains of the fall were so slight as not to prepare the ground for ploughing and were followed with a long dry autumn in which no work could be done Then came the great storm of November lasting into December, with scarcely a day's respite Such rains as astonished the oldest inhabitant fell almost constantly The ground was too wet to work From dust it became mud And mud it has been ever since, except when as at present the temperature has been too low for mud Now, with the mercury never so low as twenty-five degrees above zero we are having it too cold for farm work a temperature below the freezing point

Of course under this state of facts, little has been done in the way of sowing for the next summer's harvest Farmers are some of them, discouraged But there is time yet There is no cause to fear that no opportunity will yet be given for their work And let those who are experiencing their first winter in Oregon, not be disheartened. This, as we remarked, is the first season of thirty or more in which farmers have had so little opportunity to prepare their fields If it were a total failure it would be only what occurs in other countries one year in thirty

A NEWSPAPER IN THE WHISKY RING

The whisky trials at St Louis still afford new and interesting reading The trial of McKee, of the Globe Democrat brings to light much that was not developed in the former trials and shows that the distillers and rectifiers and government officers were not the only classes who had a hand in the crooked business but that they thought it necessary to take into their confidence and into the conspiracy those who controlled the leading paper of the Republican party in the city The witnesses who testify to facts identifying McKee with the frauds are most of [illegible] persons who were themselves deeply involved in the infamous business and their testimony is therefore to be scrutinized very closely but upon close scrutiny it loses nothing of its [illegible] free The [illegible] [illegible] with which the facts are [illegible] [illegible] manner in which the [illegible] [illegible] corroborate each other [illegible] [illegible] from the [illegible] carries conviction, in spite of the prepossession of the reader against condemning a man on the testimony of persons who admit themselves to have been accomplices in the crime with which he stands charged It is rendered about as certain as the imperfections of human evidence allow anything in the affairs of men to be [illegible] that the Globe Democrat was a member of the whisky ring

LETTER FROM OLYMPIA

To the Editor of the Oregonian

The snow on the way from Tenino to Olympia is about four inches deep The stage road is very rough with frozen ruts and broken ice The cold Saturday and Sabbath night closed some of the holes, but left the road but little better Teams and travelers suffer a like inconvenience We learn to prize the comfortable N P R R car and to wish for its extension to Olympia and to Portland also The raw and strong northwest wind on the Sound last night reminded us of the northeast storms on the New England coast The mercury at Tenino however was only about 27° at six o'clock this A M The fear was felt that the Columbia would be covered with floating ice On meeting the train at Cowlitz station, 12 M passengers said You will get through to-night but hardly will any one get above Kalama to-morrow We pressed through several ice floes on the way to St Helens which partially stopped the steamer's wheel and troubled the engineer Coming up the slough which was clear of ice we avoided large and almost continuous fields of it in the main Columbia Capt G Ainsworth expressed doubts of his ability to get the steamer through to-morrow especially if the night is cold The day has been clear and warm in the sun but wintry on the ice side The snow has called out the coasters old and young the elite and the less known all enjoying the rare treat of a slide One lady from California had never seen coasting on sleds before

Some say that the Governor was out as youthful and joyous as any of his children being one among them in their recreations as every parent should be Some little boys were sliding on Sabbath evening and here parents should interpose, and honor the Lord's day The ponds are reported frozen, and skaters will be out in force to night

Olympia has a truly village appearance with many attractions and many pleasant families Every one hopes that its business prospects will grow brighter this year and next and reward the people for their costly and patient waiting to make it one of the choicest abodes on the Sound The marts of business the homes of the people the schools and the churches all need the stimulus of a new and hopeful prospect of growth With the revival of railroad building connecting Oregon with the Eastern States W [illegible] will gain equally and Olympia will share with all other towns this great benefit When all of our moneyed men decide to invest their funds in home enterprises instead of entrusting them to California bankers to promote the home enterprises of that State, our region will begin to prosper

TILLAMOOK BAY Jan 1[illegible] 1876

To the Editor of the Oregonian

Believing that your widely circulated journal is devoted to the interest of the whole of Oregon with no distinction of place or men and that you will cheerfully publish anything beneficial to the community permit me to say through your columns a few words in relation to Tillamook county There are resources here to be developed which when known will not only command the attention of those seeking agricultural or grazing lands but also the capitalist No place on the Pacific coast presents to the farmer dairyman or stock raiser of limited means inducements superior to those offered by Tillamook To the man of capital, who is desirous of investing in the lumbering business Tillamook Bay offers great inducements, and I further state without fear of contradiction by any one knowing the facts, that this county possesses as much if not more timber of a superior quality, than can be found in any coast county between the Columbia river and San Francisco Coos county not excepted We have an abundance of the first quality of yellow fir white spruce, cedar larch, hemlock and alder Port Orford or white cedar we have not The entrance to Tillamook Bay is good superior to that of Coos Bay, as it has a straight entrance, and 13½ feet of water on the bar at dead low tide, vide the Coast Pilot Kinslow survey Vessels drawing from 12 to 15 feet can enter the bay as far as Eastbrooks Point distant about 3 miles from the entrance Vessels drawing 7 or 7½ can come up to the town of Tillamook a distance of about 10 miles There is not in my opinion a better opening for a first or second class steam saw mill on the coast When you take into account the fact that there are five rivers emptying into Tillamook Bay whose banks for a long distance are teeming with the kinds and quality of timber I have enumerated, little apprehension should be entertained of exhausting the timber for a long time

We have at present but one vessel plying between here and Portland—the Katie F Heron—but to-morrow will be launched by Capt Wm Terwilliger of your city a fine sloop built here by Mr Joseph Contin of San Francisco, and intended expressly for the Tillamook Astoria and Portland trade We have three stores and by the first of the ensuing month we expect another to be opened by Messrs Higgins & Co by their agent [illegible] and [illegible] lately from Michigan who is at present in your city making his purchases for this market He will ship his goods by the sloop or the steamer Gen Canby

Should this communication meet approval I will endeavor in my next to give you one a point of [illegible] and [illegible] and with Portland as there are a great many in Oregon who know nothing of us or that there is such a place on the map as

An elegant statue has recently been erected in Dublin in honor of Henry Grattan the great Irish orator and statesman As was natural all Dublin was present and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. It was to Henry Grattan's splendid abilities that Ireland owed its liberation from the odious law by which England held her in the position of a conquered country In token of the estimation in which the Irish people held Mr Grattan a sum of one hundred thousand pounds was raised by them and offered to him At first he absolutely refused to take it but after having been strongly urged to do so by his friends he accepted one half of it and used it in the purchase of an estate This however, seemed to him to be an especial retaining fee to engage his services for the party alone whose members had raised and given him the money and it seemed to fetter his future liberty of action Henry Grattan was a small man of no remarkable appearance His voice was harsh and shrill But notwithstanding these disadvantages, he was a splendid orator of the highest class At the age of thirty six he had gained by his speeches on the Irish [illegible] a celebrity as a speaker which was unequalled, or at least unexcelled, by that of any other man of his time Mr Grattan died in 1820 after a long successful and honorable life

Mail communication with the Dalles has been suspended for the present owing to the impossibility of navigating the Columbia river on account of floating and fixed ice The mail contract of the O S N Company provides for a daily service by steamer between this city and the Dalles Last year when the river closed the company transported the mail at considerable extra expense to the Dalles overland The Postoffice Department refused to pay the company for the extra outlay In consequence of this the company is, we have been informed having resolved this year to do no more than they are required to do by the terms of the contract So we will probably have to wait for a mail from the Dalles until the river opens and the steamers can make their customary trips

Sam Bowles values the old [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Wolters [illegible] [illegible] and thinks that the [illegible] of the people is better than the [illegible] of the learned [illegible] [illegible] Sam Bowles is occasionally a sensible man

CITY.

ON THE LOWER COLUMBIA.—The steamer Dixie Thompson reached here safely last evening from Astoria. Considerable quantities of floating ice were met in the Columbia at Rainier and Columbia City. On reaching St Helens the steamer came by way of the slough. The steamer Emma Hayward was met at Coffin Rock, having made that point in good time. A sheeting of plank was placed around the hull of the Dixie Thompson to protect her from the ice, and it is thought she will be able to make her way to Astoria without danger. Navigation on the Lower Columbia will not be suspended as long as it is possible for boats to get to and from Astoria.

FIRE AT ST JOE.—Friday the 20th inst about 9 o'clock P M the freight house of the O. C. R. R. Co., at that place was burned to the ground, together with the books papers and instruments belonging to the company and Western Union Telegraph Company. The fire originated in the office and spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved except a few sacks of oats, three or four cases merchandise and two or three boxes tobacco. The scales and trucks were saved also. The agent Mr Fish left the office at 8 o clock and went to Lafayette to attend a show and in one hour the building was totally destroyed. The company's loss in freight will be light.

DISCHARGED—DEFECTIVE COMPLAINT.—Yesterday the case of City vs Geo Herral was on trial in the Police Court and consumed the principal portion of the day. In this case the defendant was charged with keeping a disorderly house. After hearing all the testimony in the case, the court discharged the defendant, on the ground that the complaint was insufficient, in that it made certain specific allegations which were not proven in the course of the trial. The court deeming the complaint defective, dismissed the case and discharged the defendant.

PROMOTION.—A Roseburg exchange says: We are pleased to announce that our late fellow townsman, George L Aiken has been appointed assistant adjutant general on the staff of Adjutant General Walsh of the California State Militia. Mr Aiken formerly lived in Portland, where he has many friends who will be gratified to learn of his promotion.

"CHILDREN."—This will be the subject of a humorous lecture to be delivered at the Y. M. C. A. room, this evening, by Lieut. Chas. E. Wood, of Vancouver. Lieut. Wood enjoys the reputation of being a pleasant speaker and his promised lecture will no doubt be a rare treat. There will be vocal and instrumental music before and after the lecture.

DEDICATION.—The new Masonic Hall, just completed at Gervais, will be dedicated with the ancient ceremonies of the craft, on the afternoon of the 28th inst. The brethren generally are cordially invited to attend. A good time may be expected.

MEETINGS.—Religious meetings will be held at the Taylor street M. E. church, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of the present week. The public are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

ALARM.—A defective flue caused the alarm from box 14 about half past seven o'clock last evening. The entire department was ready for service, but they were not called upon to do duty.

STEAMER MAILS.—Mails for the steamer Ajax close at 11.15 and express at 11 30 o clock.

THE REPORT AND RESOLUTION.

Inasmuch as the submitting of a report by the committee on fire and water at the last meeting of the common council in relation to allowing the steam fire engines to be taken from the city and used in the interest of private persons and also the passage of a resolution bearing upon the same matter, has been the subject of public comment to a very considerable extent, we publish in full both the report and the resolution.

To the Hon. Mayor and Common Council: Your committee on fire and water deem it in the line of their duty to make the following communication:

On or about the 20th of December last the new steamer Multnomah No 2 was taken from the corporate limits of the city on a hazardous journey to Astoria and remained absent from the city some three days.

This being in such open disregard of a standing resolution of the council, adopted Oct. 9, 1874, that your attention is directed to it as calling for a rebuke at your hands and such action as will prevent a recurrence of similar acts in the future.

The committee would also call your attention to the practice of using the city's steam [illegible] on private work without notifying or consulting the council in the matter as calculated to impair the efficiency of the apparatus as well as to weaken respect for the council's authority. This property was provided at great cost to the tax payers for fire purposes and should not, in the opinion of your committee be put to any other than public use except by an assenting vote of your honorable body.

This report was laid on the table and the following resolution was offered, and after being amended was adopted:

Resolved, That no portion of the steam fire apparatus of the city shall be used to do any work for private individuals or companies, [illegible] by consent of the mayor, chief engineer and a majority of the committee on fire and water.

BRIEF NOTES.

Weather continues cold.

Lecture this evening at Y M C A rooms.

The county court adjourned yesterday without date.

The steamer Ajax will sail to day at noon for San Francisco.

Another large Eastern paper mail by steamer. 'Twas ever thus!

Next Thursday week the various fire companies elect new officers.

Sleighing in the city is about played out. In the country still good.

The Progress Club will hold one of their pleasant parties Thursday evening.

The ship Yoonah and barks Mattie Macleay and Rival went to sea Sunday morning.

The ship Abercarne lies at anchor opposite Weidler's mill. The Aglaia is lying at Columbia City.

Last evening the weather relaxed its rigor very materially. At 9 o clock the thermometer stood at 31°.

Judge Shattuck is now holding a term of Circuit Court at Astoria. A number of Portland attorneys are in attendance.

The steamer Idaho arrived at this port yesterday morning at 10 o clock from San Francisco. She brought a few passengers and a large freight list.

A number of persons were skating yesterday on Couch's lake and on the east side of the river. A few more cold nights and the skating will be glorious.

WEATHER UP THE COLUMBIA.

Telegrams from up [illegible] yesterday indicate that the weather was as follows at the several points named last evening at [illegible] o clock.

Wallula—Clear, wind blown [illegible] thermometer [illegible] river full of ice.

Umatilla—Clear [illegible]

Dalles—Clear [illegible] wind from the east.

The boys and girls all agree that the Museum is better than a circus.

COUNTY ROAD MATTERS.

BOUNDARIES OF THE NEW ROAD DISTRICTS OF THE COUNTY—APPOINTMENT OF SUPERVISORS.

Heretofore that portion of Multnomah county lying east of the Willamette river has been divided into six road districts. At the last session of the county court the eastern portion of this county was entirely reconstructed and the six districts were merged into five. East Portland which has been excluded from the several districts is now embraced within the limits of the various ones. Districts Nos 1 and 2 which now include all that portion of Multnomah county lying west of the river remain unchanged. The following are the boundaries of the five new districts situated on the east side of the Willamette.

ROAD DISTRICT NO. 3

Beginning at a point in the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river where the same is intersected by the line between township one north range one east and township one north range two east of the Willamette meridian thence south tracing the line between said townships about 4 miles to the southeast corner of section 24 of township one north range one east thence southwesterly about one mile to a point in the west side line of section 25 one fourth of a mile north of the southwest corner thereof thence south tracing section line one fourth of a mile to the southwest corner of section 25 thence west tracing line between sections [illegible] and [illegible] to the center of 18th street in Holladay's addition to the city of East Portland, thence south along the center line of said 18th street to the center line of Multnomah street thence west tracing the center line of Multnomah street to the south side line of McMillen's addition to the city of East Portland thence westerly tracing the southerly side line of said McMillen's addition and the extension thereof to the middle of the channel of the Willamette river thence down the middle of the main channel of said river northwesterly to the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river thence easterly up the main channel of Columbia river to the place of beginning.

ROAD DISTRICT NO. 4

Beginning at a point in the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river where the same is intersected by the line between township one north range one east, and township one north range two east, of the Willamette meridian thence easterly following the main channel of the Columbia river to the northeast corner of Multnomah county thence southeasterly, tracing the east side line of said county to a point one half mile north of the base line, thence west parallel with and one-half mile north of the base line about 4[illegible] miles to the middle of the west side line of section 3[illegible] township one north range one east, of the Willamette meridian, thence south one-half mile to a point 30 feet north of the southwest corner of said section 36 thence west tracing the north side line of the road to the center line of Twelfth street in the city of East Portland thence north tracing the center line of said Twelfth street to the center line of H street in the said city of East Portland thence west along the center line of said H street, and the extension thereof, to the middle of the channel of the Willamette river thence northwesterly along the middle of the channel of said river to a point in the westerly extension of the south side line of McMillen's Addition to the city of East Portland, thence easterly along said extension and the southerly line of McMillen's Addition to the city of East Portland to the center line of Multnomah street in Holladay's Addition to the city of East Portland, thence east along the center line of said Multnomah street to Eighteenth street; thence north along the center line of said Eighteenth street to the line between sections 26 and 35 of township 1 north of range 1 east thence east, tracing said section line to the southwest corner of section 25 thence north one fourth mile to a point, thence northeasterly about one mile to the northeast corner of section 25 thence north tracing the westside line of township 1 north of range 2 east, of the Willamette meridian, about four miles to the place of beginning.

Fifty cents admission will be charged Saturday night to see the great [illegible] skating race for the Centennial medal.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Miss Marie Smith is recovering from her recent illness.

The ice justified a few venturesome youths to try skating yesterday. It proved rather unsuccessful however.

There is some talk of a Centennial concert to be given shortly by Salem home talent. Time and place not yet fully decided on.

Calvin B McDonald will visit Oregon shortly with a new and interesting lecture. It is rumored also that D L Emerson of California will visit us this summer.

Bishop Morris officiated at St. Paul's (Episcopal) church yesterday delivering two interesting discourses and administering the rite of confirmation to four candidates.

[illegible] Ramsby the accommodating mail carrier on the route between this city and Silverton is reported very ill this morning. We sincerely hope it will prove nothing serious.

In view of so much sickness which by many is considered of a contagious character it has been suggested that our city schools be closed for a short time. That idea is certainly worthy of attention.

Young Byles remains will be taken charge of by the members of the Alka Society of the Willamette University of which he was an honored member and a committee consisting of Messrs Steeves and Washburn will accompany the remains home. The Society have been very kind and attentive during the illness of their friend and associate, and deserve great credit for their untiring efforts in his behalf.

Death has been reaping a rich harvest in our city recently. Willie Bristow was buried yesterday. Robt. I. Byles one of the students of the Willamette University died last evening after a brief illness. His father residing at Elma W T. have been telegraphed to. Howard G. Morris still lies very low with but little hopes of his recovery. Thos Mann a well known contractor of your city is likewise quite ill.

The Salem ladies are perfecting arrangements for a grand sociable to be given at Reed's opera house next Friday evening for the benefit of the Salem fire department. The boys need a new hose carriage and if ever a department deserved a rousing benefit it is the efficient one belonging to this city. They have done excellent service in the past and their effort should be liberally rewarded. Let every Salemite make it a point to either purchase a ticket and attend or patronize the boys even if they remain at home.

TOUTLE RIVER

A GOOD PLACE TO GET HOMES

KALAMA W T Jan 20 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I am receiving quite a number of letters asking for information about the Toutle river. I therefore send you a brief description of that country. I have recently surveyed two townships of land along that river and through which it runs. There are about sixteen sections of Government land and about the same number of sections of railroad land, which can be bought cheap, with a good title. This agricultural region contains about twenty thousand acres of land, nearly all vacant. At the time of survey there was only one claim taken but it is now settling up rapidly. The uplands are rolling soil clay of good quality. Several sections have been burned over and are easily brought into cultivation. There are some small prairies with grass fern and [illegible] also quite a quantity of swale land soil clay, sandy loam and vegetable decomposition easily drained lightly timbered with alder maple ash, vine maple crab apple and salmon berry with fair wild grass for winter range for cattle. There is some beaver dam land also quite a quantity of good bottom land not subject to overflow soil sandy clay loam with vegetable mould mostly brush land and easily cleared—vine maple alder ash fir crab apple and salmon berry brush. Some of the bottom land is very heavily timbered with fir and cedar about equal in quantity which will cut from sixty to one hundred M feet of lumber per acre. The Toutle river is a stream large enough for driving out logs nine months of the year. There is also a large body of timber lying east of this county much of it on unsurveyed land. The center of this settlement will be about fourteen miles east from a depot on the N P R R and twenty miles north from Kalama. The settlers will have the benefit of the Portland and Puget Sound markets to either of which they can ship their produce every day [illegible] the week Sundays excepted. There is now one school and two road districts organized at Toutle lake and Methodist preaching once a month. This county is well watered with excellent water and is well worth looking at if persons are desirous of making homes west of the Cascade mountains.

Yours respectfully

LEWIS VAN VLIET

American readers to whom the present Lord Lytton is only known as Owen Meredith the easy going half cynical London clubman a minor poet of delicate fancy the author of "Lucile," will be a little surprised to learn that at a time when grave difficulties and complications are foreseen in the East and Great Britain has need there of the wisest and most experienced servants it is this elegant dilettante that the government has chosen as the fittest man to entrust with the dignity and responsibility of the Viceroyalty of India. The truth is that Lord Lytton is a diplomatist of long and wide experience. Since 1849 when he came to this country at the age of eighteen as secretary to his uncle Sir Henry Bulwer, then British Minister at Washington he has been continuously in the diplomatic service of his country working his way by successive promotions to a position of great distinction. The public have known little of this. Like many another British civil servant Lytton has followed literature in his leisure and earned fame in its pursuit while the sober business of his life was known only to his superiors who would probably have cared little for his literary work were not most of them literary men themselves. It will be a good while before our American civil service as now disorganized can develop either diplomatists or poets.

DROPSY AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS are certainly cured by Dr Jayne's Alterative. It stimulates the absorbents into healthy action whereby all watery accumulations are gradually but surely [illegible] It also increases the power of the stomach and imparts renewed vigor to the whole system, thus removing all danger of a relapse.

Needless Suffering.

Many persons of weakly constitution with dyspeptic and bilious tendencies suffer life long bodily distress unnecessarily. Their existences are commonly shorter than those of healthier mortals, [illegible] while they last. It is usually the case that they are continually losing the [illegible] to no purpose. Could they be induced to use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for a while strength regained digestion restored and the disappearance of [illegible] symptoms would be [illegible] the difference between a remedy which deals with causes and those which affect symptoms merely. Not only are the Bitters a searching specific for complaints affecting the stomach liver and intestinal canal but they are in consequence of their invigorative and bracing influence upon the entire physique an admirable means of protecting the system against the atmospheric influences which beget malarial disease.

CITY.

ON THE LOWER COLUMBIA.—The steamer Dixie Thompson reached here safely last evening from Astoria. Considerable quantities of floating ice were met in the Columbia at Rainier and Columbia City. On reaching St Helens the steamer came by way of the slough. The steamer Fannie Hayward was [illegible] at Coffin Rock, having made that point in good time. A sheeting of plank was placed around the hull of the Dixie Thompson to protect her from the ice, and it is thought she will be able to make her way to Astoria without danger. Navigation on the Lower Columbia will not be suspended as long as it is possible for boats to get to and from Astoria.

FIRE AT ST JOE.—Friday, the 20th inst about 8 o'clock P M, the freight house of the O C R R Co, at that place was burned to the ground, together with the books, papers and instruments belonging to the company and Western Union Telegraph Company. The fire originated in the office and spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved except a few sacks of oats, three or four cases merchandise, and two or three boxes tobacco. The scales and trucks were saved also. The agent Mr Fish left the office at 8 o'clock and went to Lafayette to attend a show, and in one hour the building was totally destroyed. The company's loss in freight will be light.

DISCHARGED—DEFECTIVE COMPLAINT.—Yesterday the case of City vs Geo Herral was on trial in the Police Court and consumed the principal portion of the day. In this case the defendant was charged with keeping a disorderly house. After hearing all the testimony in the case, the court discharged the defendant on the ground that the complaint was insufficient, in that it made certain specific allegations which were not proven in the course of the trial. The court deeming the complaint defective dismissed the case and discharged the defendant.

PROMOTION.—A Roseburg exchange says: "We are pleased to announce that our late fellow townsman, George E Aiken has been appointed assistant adjutant general on the staff of Adjutant General Walsh of the California State Militia." Mr Aiken formerly lived in Portland, where he has many friends who will be gratified to learn of his promotion.

"CHILDREN."—This will be the subject of a humorous lecture to be delivered at the Y M C A room, this evening by Lieut Chas F Wood, of Vancouver. Lieut. Wood enjoys the reputation of being a pleasant speaker and his promised lecture will no doubt be a rare treat. There will be vocal and instrumental music before and after the lecture.

DEDICATION.—The new Masonic Hall, just completed at Gervais, will be dedicated with the ancient ceremonies of the craft, on the afternoon of the 26th inst. The brethren generally are cordially invited to attend. A [illegible] time may be expected.

MEETINGS.—Religious meetings will be held at the Taylor street M E church, Tuesday, [illegible] and Friday evenings of the present week. The public are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

FIRE ALARM.—A defective flue caused the alarm from box 14 about half past seven o'clock last evening. The entire department was ready for service, but they were not called upon to do duty.

STEAMER MAILS.—Mails for the steamer Ajax close at 11.15 and express at 11 30 o'clock.

THE REPORT AND RESOLUTION

Inasmuch as the submitting of a report by the committee on fire and water at the last meeting of the common council in relation to allowing the steam fire engines to be taken from the city and used in the interest of private persons and also the passage of a resolution bearing upon the same matter, has been the subject of public comment to a very considerable extent, we publish in full both the report and the resolution.

To the Hon. Mayor and Common Council

Your committee on fire and water deem it in the line of their duty to make the following communication:

On or about the 29th of December last the new steamer Multnomah No. 2 was taken from the corporate limits of the city on a hazardous journey to Astoria and remained absent from the city some three days.

This being in such open disregard of a standing resolution of the council, adopted Oct. 9, 1874, that your attention is directed to it as calling for a rebuke at your hands and such action as will prevent a recurrence of similar acts in the future.

The committee would also call your attention to the practice of using the city's steam engines on private work without notifying or consulting the council in the matter as calculated to impair the efficiency of the apparatus as well as to weaken respect for the council's authority. This property was provided at great cost to the tax payers for fire purposes and should not, in the opinion of your committee be put to any other than public use, except by an assenting vote of your honorable body.

This report was laid on the table and the following resolution was offered, and after being amended was adopted:

Resolved, That no portion of the steam fire apparatus of the city shall be used to do any work for private individuals or companies, except by consent of the mayor, chief engineer and a majority of the committee on fire and water.

BRIEF NOTES.

Weather continues cold.

Lecture this evening at Y M C A rooms.

The county court adjourned yesterday without date.

The steamer Ajax will sail to day at noon for San Francisco.

Another large Eastern paper mail by steamer. 'Twas ever thus!

Next Thursday week the various fire companies elect new officers.

Sleighing in the city is about played out. In the country still good.

The Progress Club will hold one of their pleasant parties Thursday evening.

The ship Poonah and barks Matt McLean and Rival went to sea Sunday morning.

The ship Abercorne lies at anchor opposite Webfoot's mill. The Aglaia is lying at Columbia City.

Last evening the weather relaxed its rigor very materially. At 9 o'clock the thermometer stood at 31°.

Judge Shattuck is now holding a term of Circuit Court at Astoria. A number of Portland attorneys are in attendance.

The steamer Idaho arrived at this port yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from San Francisco. She brought a few passengers and a large freight list.

A number of persons were skating yesterday on Couch's lake, and on the east side of the river. A few more cold nights and the skating will be glorious.

WEATHER UP THE COLUMBIA

Telegrams from up the Columbia yesterday indicate that the weather was as follows at the several points named last evening at [illegible] o'clock:

Wallula.—Clear, wind down stream, thermometer 8°, river full of [illegible].

Umatilla.—Clear, [illegible].

Dalles.—Clear, [illegible] wind from the east.

Hood River.—Clear, thermometer 16°.

Walla Walla.—Thermometer [illegible] snow, very little.

Cascades.—Clear and cold, wind from north, thermometer 20°.

Celilo.—Weather clear and cold, thermometer, 15°.

The boys and girls all agree that the Museum is better than a circus.

COUNTY ROAD MATTERS.

BOUNDARIES OF THE NEW ROAD DISTRICTS OF THE COUNTY—APPOINTMENT OF SUPERVISORS.

Heretofore that portion of Multnomah county lying east of the Wallamet river has been divided into six road districts. At the last session of the county court the eastern portion of this county was entirely reconstructed and the six districts were merged into five. East Portland, which has been excluded from the several districts is now embraced within the limits of the various ones. Districts Nos. 1 and 2, which now include all that portion of Multnomah county lying west of the river remain unchanged. The following are the boundaries of the five new districts [illegible] on the east side of the Wallamet:

ROAD DISTRICT NO 3

Beginning at a point in the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river where the same is intersected by the line between township one north range one east, and township one north range two east of the Willamette meridian, thence south tracing the line between said townships about 4 miles to the southeast corner of section 24 of township one north range one east, thence southwesterly about one mile to a point in the west side line of section 25 one-fourth of a mile north of the southwest corner thereof, thence south tracing section line one fourth of a mile to the southwest corner of section 25, thence west tracing line between sections 26 and 35 to the center of 18th street in Holladay's addition to the city of East Portland, thence south along the center line of said 18th street to the center line of Multnomah street, thence west tracing the center line of Multnomah street to the south side line of McMillen's addition to the city of East Portland, thence westerly tracing the southerly side line of said McMillen's addition and the extension thereof to the middle of the channel of the Willamette river, thence down the middle of the main channel of said river northwesterly to the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river, thence easterly up the main channel of Columbia river to the place of beginning.

ROAD DISTRICT NO 4

Beginning at a point in the middle of the main channel of the Columbia river where the same is intersected by the line between township one north range one east, and township one north range two east, of the Willamette meridian, thence easterly following the main channel of the Columbia river to the northeast corner of Multnomah county, thence southeasterly, tracing the east side line of said county to a point one half mile north of the base line, thence west parallel with and one half mile north of the base line about 17 miles to the middle of the west side line of section 37, township one north range one east, of the Willamette meridian, thence south one-half mile to a point 30 feet north of the southwest corner of said section 37, thence west, tracing the north side line of the road to the center line of Twelfth street in the city of East Portland, thence north tracing the center line of said Twelfth street to the center line of H street in the said city of East Portland, thence west along the center line of said H street, and the extension thereof, to the middle of the channel of the Willamette river, thence northwesterly along the middle of the channel of said river to a point in the westerly extension of the south side line of McMillen's Addition to the city of East Portland, thence easterly along said extension and the southerly line of McMillen's Addition to the city of East Portland to the center line of Multnomah street in Holladay's Addition to the city of East Portland, thence east along the center line of said Multnomah street to Eighteenth street, thence north along the center line of said Eighteenth street to the line between sections 26 and 35 of township 1 north of range 1 east, thence east, tracing said section line to the southwest corner of section 25, thence north one fourth mile to a point, thence northeasterly about one mile to the northeast corner of section 25, thence north tracing the westside line of township 1 north of range 2 east, of the Willamette meridian about four miles to the place of beginning.

ROAD DISTRICT NO 5

Beginning at a point in the middle of the west side line of section 33 of township one north range one east of the Willamette meridian, thence east parallel with and one half mile north of the base line about 17 miles to the east side line of Multnomah county, thence southeasterly, tracing the east side line of said county to a point two miles south of the base line about 24 miles to the middle of the south side line of section 7 of township one south, range 4 east of the Willamette meridian, thence north one half mile to the middle of said section 7, thence west one half mile to the middle of the west side line of said section 7, thence north one-fourth mile to a point, thence west parallel with and one and one fourth mile south of the base line, 11 miles to a point in the west side line of section 12 township one south, range one east, thence north three fourths of a mile to a point 30 feet south of the middle of the west side line of section one, township one south, range one east, thence west, tracing the south side line of Asylum street in the city of East Portland and the extension thereof to the middle of the main channel in the Willamette river, thence northerly following the middle of the channel of said river to a point in the westerly extension of the center line of H street in the city of East Portland, thence east following said extension and the center line of said H street to the center line of Twelfth street in said city of East Portland, thence south following the center line of said Twelfth street to a point 30 feet north of the base line, thence east parallel with the base line to the place of beginning.

ROAD DISTRICT NO 6

Beginning at a point 30 feet south of the middle point of the west side line of section one, township one south, range one east of the Willamette meridian, thence south three fourths of a mile, thence east parallel with and one and one fourth miles south of the base line 13 miles to a point in the west side line of section seven, township one south, range four east of the Willamette meridian, thence south one fourth of a mile to the middle of the west side line of said section seven, thence east one half mile to the center of said section seven, thence south one half mile to the middle of the south side line of said section seven, thence east tracing section lines about 21 miles to the east side line of Multnomah county, thence southeasterly tracing the east side line of said county to the southeast corner thereof, thence west tracing the south side line of said county about 27 miles to the middle of the main channel of the Willamette river, thence northerly following the middle of the channel of said river to a point in the westerly extension of the south side line of Asylum street in the city of East Portland, thence east following said extension and the south line of said Asylum street to the place of beginning.

ROAD SUPERVISORS

A J Watson appointed supervisor for Road District No 1, bond fixed at $1 000.

Pembroke Gault appointed supervisor of District No 2, bond fixed at $1 000.

Benjamin Sunderland appointed supervisor of District No 3, bond fixed at $500.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Miss Mary Smith is recovering from her recent illness.

The ice justified a few venturesome youths to try skating yesterday. It proved rather unsuccessful however.

There is some talk of a Centennial concert to be given shortly by Salem home talent. Time and place not yet fully decided on.

Calvin B McDonald will visit Oregon shortly with a new and interesting lecture. It is rumored also that D. J. Linerson of California will visit us this summer.

Bishop Morris officiated at St. Paul's (Episcopal) church yesterday, delivering two interesting discourses and administering the rite of confirmation to four candidates.

P C Ramsby, the accommodating mail carrier on the route between this city and Silverton, is reported very ill this morning. We sincerely hope it will prove nothing serious.

In view of so much sickness which by many is considered of a contagious character, it has been suggested that our city schools be closed for a short time. The idea is certainly worthy of attention.

Young Byles' remains will be taken charge of by the members of the Alka Society of the Willamette University, of which he was an honored member, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Stevens and Washburn will accompany the remains home. The Society have been very kind and attentive during the illness of their friend and associate, and deserve great credit for their unwearying efforts in his behalf.

Death has been reaping a rich harvest in our city recently. Willie Bristow was buried yesterday. Robt L Byles, one of the students of the Willamette University, died last evening after a brief illness. His folks residing at Elma, W. T., have been telegraphed to. Howard G. Morris still lies very low with but little hopes of his recovery. Thos Mann, a well known contractor of your city, is likewise quite ill.

The Salem ladies are perfecting arrangements for a grand sociable to be given at Reed's opera house next Friday evening for the benefit of the Salem fire department. The boys need a new hose carriage, and if ever a department deserved a rousing benefit it is the efficient one belonging to this city. They have done excellent service in the past and their effort should be liberally rewarded. Let every Salemite make it a point to either purchase a ticket and attend or patronize the boys even if they remain at home.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Billy Fenton, vagrancy, discharged. Jake Williams, vagrancy, sent to jail for five days. James Brigham, vagrancy, defendant discharged. J Lichtenstein, larceny by bailee, case continued. James Slade, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, paid. J Ballentine, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, in jail. Jos McNamara, carrying concealed weapon, discharged. Jos McNamara, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, in jail. Martin Smith, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, in jail. Wm Cowie, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, paid. Alex Hamilton, disorderly conduct, fined $5, paid. Wm Goodman, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, paid. James Hunter, disorderly conduct, fined $5, paid. Jane Black, disorderly conduct, fined $5, paid. J M Dyer, disorderly conduct, forfeited his bail. Thos Cotter, disorderly conduct, fined $10, in jail. Wm Palmer, disorderly conduct, fined $10, paid. Wm Hunter, drunk and disorderly, fined $5, paid. J Agrant, drunk and disorderly, fined $10, in jail.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.

MONDAY, Jan. 24, 1876.

The four sailors (Kennedy, Kelly, Johnson and Christensen) who were tried on last Friday by the court for refusing to obey the orders of their officer were adjudged guilty, and a motion for a new trial is to be heard to-morrow.

United States vs John Strachan, pardon of the President in remitting $500 of judgment heretofore made and order of execution for the balance.

United States vs C M Noyes, motion for stay of execution allowed, and order staying execution 90 days.

Adjourned till 10 to-morrow.

COUNTY COURT—WOODWARD, J.

IN LAW

James Hume, plaintiff, vs J. Myrick and Titus Clark, defendants, entered and judgment entered against J. Myrick for the sum of $[illegible] 87 and costs.

Dress up young man in one of Fishel & Roberts' fashionable suits. This firm have an established reputation, and offer the best inducements to all with limited circumstances. Call and see them.

The Elmwood collar is made so that the corners cannot turn up. It holds its shape under all circumstances.

FILES. PILES.—Persons suffering with the above complaint can find immediate relief by the Wrightman Process. No knife, caustic, ligature or painful appliance necessary. Call and be convinced. No other disease treated by Mr. Wrightman. Room 45 St. Charles Hotel, Portland. Satisfaction insured. In a few minutes all pain and unpleasant feeling is gone. The Wrightman Process relieves immediately piles, blind or bleeding, fistula in ano, inflammation, ulceration and mucous discharges of the rectum, all proceeding from the same cause. Constipation and piles long neglected are controlled and cured by the same process. Consultation fee $2.

Mr Wrightman has received these testimonials:

St Charles Hotel, Portland, Jan 17 1876.—Statement: I have tried the Wrightman Process for the relief and cure of Hemorrhoids or Piles, and found it just the thing needed. I am now relieved of all pain and unpleasant feeling. I advise others afflicted to try the Process and find relief and cure. (It was the 4th of January 1876 when I first tried it, thirteen days since.) A. JENNINGS.

Engineer on Albany Express O & C R R. Residence—East Portland.

St Charles Hotel, Portland, Jan 17 1876.—A lady member of my family had been suffering for a long time with distress of the rectum. We thought there was no cure for it, and after much doctoring we tried the Wrightman Process, and it was at once relieved and in four days it was relieved entirely, and considered further treatment unnecessary.

C H PERKINS,
Proprietor St. Charles Hotel.
Witness: CLARK HAY,
Father of the person referred to.

By request of a prominent citizen of Salem Mr Wrightman will be in Salem after the 26th or 27th of this month. His return to Portland will depend on circumstances. Those desiring treatment please notice.

Judge McArthur will lecture before the Eugene Library Association on the 29th, followed, in course, by Hon. H H Gilfry, Dr Stratton, Rev. E R Geary and ex-Gov Whiteaker.

A joint stock company has been organized at Elkton with a capital of $3 000, for the purpose of erecting a steam grist and sawmill at or near the mouth of Elk creek. The stock is nearly all taken.

A nondescript called a cow fish was discovered dead in a pond flat at Eugene City. It was hauled up and inspected by nearly one in town. This fish was about 5 feet long and 1 foot in diameter, weighing about 150 lbs.

Says the Jacksonville Times: We are informed that the imported Percheron horse Napoleon II, owned by W C Myer of Ashland and brought out in 1872, died on the 16th inst. from a rupture in the stomach.

The brig Orient, Capt Bachelor, was loading at Simpson's mills at Gardiner last week, and the schooner Active was loading at Hinsdale's mill at the same time. The last named vessel was built at that place about three years ago.

TOUTLE RIVER

A GOOD PLACE TO GET HOMES

KALAMA W T Jan 20 1876

To the EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I am receiving quite a number of letters asking for information about the Toutle river. I therefore send you a brief description of that country. I have recently surveyed two townships of land along that river and through which it runs. There are about sixteen sections of Government land and about the same number of sections of railroad land, which can be bought cheap, with a good title. This agricultural region contains about twenty thousand acres of land nearly all vacant. At the time of survey there was only one claim taken, but it is now settling up rapidly. The uplands are rolling soil, clay of good quality. Several sections have been burned over and are easily brought into cultivation. There are some small prairies with grass, fern and peavine; also quite a quantity of swale land, soil, clay, sandy loam and vegetable decomposition, easily drained, lightly timbered with alder, maple, ash, vine maple, crab apple and salmon berry, with fair wild grass for winter range for cattle. There is some beaver dam land, also quite a quantity of good bottom land not subject to overflow, soil sandy clay loam with vegetable mold, mostly brush land easily cleared—vine maple, alder, ash, fir, crab apple and salmon berry brush. Some of the bottom land is very heavily timbered with fir and cedar, about equal in quantity, which will cut from sixty to one hundred M feet of lumber per acre. The Toutle river is a stream large enough for driving out logs nine months of the year. There is also a large body of timber lying east of this county, much of it on unsurveyed land. The center of this settlement will be about fourteen miles east from a depot on the N P R R, and twenty miles north from Kalama. The settlers will have the benefit of the Portland and Puget Sound markets, to either of which they can ship their produce every day of the week, Sunday excepted. There is now one school and two road districts organized at Toutle lake, and Methodist preaching once a month. This county is well watered with excellent water and is well worth looking at if persons are desirous of making homes west of the Cascade mountains.

Yours respectfully
LEWIS VAN VLEET

American readers to whom the present Lord Lytton is only known as "Owen Meredith," an easy going half cynical London clubman, a minor poet of delicate fancy, the author of "Lucile," will be a little surprised to learn that at a time when grave difficulties and complications are foreseen in the East and Great Britain has need there of the wisest and most experienced servants, it is this elegant dilettante that the government has chosen as the fittest man to entrust with the dignity and responsibility of the Viceroyalty of India. The truth is that Lord Lytton is a diplomatist of long and wide experience. Since 1849, when he came to this country at the age of eighteen as secretary to his uncle, Sir Henry Bulwer, then British Minister at Washington, he has been continuously in the diplomatic service of his country, working his way by successive promotions to a position of great distinction. The public have known little of this. Like many another British civil servant, Lytton has followed literature in his leisure and earned fame in its pursuit while the sober business of his life was known only to his superiors, who would probably have cared little for his literary work were not most of them literary men themselves. It will be a good while before our American civil service, now disorganized, can develop either diplomatists or poets.

A WINTER ODE

FROM HORACE.

See how white the hills are now
How with the snow the forests bow
How with [illegible] babbling meads [illegible]
Fix'd by the frost is mute and still

Heaped the cold [illegible] pile on the fire
With liberal hand the great logs higher
Bring [illegible] the rich [illegible] wine
And round the goblet roses twine

Leave to the gods all care, my friend,
[illegible] at will fierce tempests [illegible]
[illegible] warm fragrant summer breeze
[illegible] stirs the leafy trees

Why [illegible] what [illegible] with coming hours
What length of days shall [illegible] be ours?
The [illegible] for us that may remain
We'll take—and count it so much gain

While youth remains—while yet we may
With song and dance let us be gay
Let Time speed on—our wine we'll quaff
With many a jest and lightsome laugh

And when in play a laugh reveals
[illegible]
Find her and taste exquisite bliss—
She feigns to hate—but loves to kiss

THE DARK CELL

THE [illegible] OF A PRISON—PHYSICAL, MENTAL AND MORAL RESULTS OF THE DARK CELL

In our Eastern Penitentiary, says a Philadelphia paper, dark cell treatment is only resorted to in the most obstinate cases. The last annual report shows twenty applications in a criminal population of 700 and more.

"You will bear in mind that under the laws which govern the commonwealth neither the lash nor the paddle can be applied to obdurate prisoners," said our informant.

"Does the same man undergo such treatment often?"

"The cases are very rare of a double application. One does generally suffice."

"What is the usual effect mentally, morally and physically?"

"Mentally, I never noticed any, neither have I physically. Morally, it has considerable. When a prisoner once undergoes such treatment he rarely desires to try it again. A man once conquered by dark cell treatment is conquered for his full term."

"Is it always so effective?"

"I have never known it to fail. I remember that some years ago, when I was more closely connected with our prisons, there was a murderer brought from one of the interior counties to the Eastern penitentiary. He was a colored man, of excellent physique, but brutal in the extreme. The crime he had committed was most atrocious in its character, and that he was not convicted of murder in the first degree was simply owing to cowardice on the part of the jury. He had been incarcerated but a few hours when he attempted to rule the prison. He grossly insulted his keeper, and announced that he intended to do just as he pleased. In order to discipline him he was put on bread and water diet, but with no good result. Then the dark cell treatment was resorted to. For two days he bore it bravely. At the beginning of the third he sent for the chaplain and desired to know what such treatment meant and how long he would be compelled to undergo it."

"Until you submit to the rulings of those who have you in charge and resolve to conduct yourself decently," replied the chaplain.

"How long will that be?" asked the culprit.

"That depends on yourself," answered the chaplain.

"Well, nobody ever conquered me yet," said the prisoner, "and nobody's going to do it now!"

"Very well," said the chaplain, "perhaps you'll think differently before many days roll round." Forty-eight hours more passed, when the prisoner sent for the warden.

"How much longer am I to stay in this place?" he inquired.

"Until you resolve to obey the rules which govern this institution. When you apologise to your keeper and promise to comply with all our requirements you shall be released."

"Suppose I don't do that, what then?"

"Then you will remain just where you are."

"How long will that be?"

"You are sentenced to twelve years, and unless you do as I have said you will spend every hour of those twelve years in this cell, unless you die in the meantime. The matter rests entirely with yourself."

"Well, I tell you that you can't conquer me this way."

"Very well," said the warden and the interview ended.

Three days more passed, and the warden was again sent for.

"I have come to terms," said the prisoner, "and am ready to do as you desire."

He then apologized to his keeper, promised obedience and proved a most exemplary prisoner ever afterwards. This was one of the longest applications of the treatment that I ever knew of in the Eastern penitentiary. Physically or mentally it had no visible effect. In fact, I have never known of any case of injury resulting from the treatment. Our dark cells are different from many others. In the Eastern penitentiary the dark cell is formed by placing a covering over the sky light of an ordinary cell. In the Auburn, N. Y., prison the dark cell is nothing more than a stone box. The floor is formed of a single slab, and walls of masonry. The cell is three feet wide, six feet high and six feet long. There are two doors, one of iron and the other oak, with no openings. A sprinkling of sawdust half an inch deep covers the floor and a gill of water and four ounces of bread for the allowance for twenty-four hours. Such a mode of treatment may be imagined. The reports of the prison show that about one half the insane cases at Auburn have resulted from such treatment. In our penitentiary the prisoner is allowed all the water he wants and from half a pound to a pound of bread a day.

WHY THE CHINESE COME OVER.—The masses of the people are very poor. It is with them a severe struggle for existence. The average wages of mechanics and common laborers for a day's work of 12 to 14 hours is 10 to 20 cents, but Chinese mechanics skilled in our trades are paid by foreigners 25 to 45 cents a day. The cost of European or American living here is one-third less than it is in the United States. Chinese living of the commonest sort, but the best that can be afforded by the masses doesn't on an average exceed [illegible] cents a day. A wealthy Chinaman doesn't expend more than $5 or $6 a month for his food. The result is a great deal of destitution and suffering among the masses; there is much begging in and about the temples and in the streets of the old city; there is too, notwithstanding the terrible cruelty of punishment inflicted for crime, much petty pilfering and robbery from the person and from houses. There are many rich Chinamen, but they are not inclined to works of charity; they hold and hoard. There is no properly organized system of charity; relatives and friends are supposed to take care of the sick and unfortunate. It is only in cases of dire necessity that government agency affords relief, and then it is only temporary. The foundling hospital is a government enterprise, and that is its most conspicuous charity.—N. Y. Times.

A LONE PATRIOT.—On New Year's day, more than a score of years ago, a man named Brinn living out on the Grand river road came into the city and feeling that the day should be one of rejoicing and merry making, he hunted out a gunsmith, procured a powder and started to fire off an anvil. A constable appeared and stopped him. He then got a tin horn, but at the second blast an officer warned him to quit. Brinn wandered around for awhile and then attempted to run his own flag up to the top of the old liberty pole in place of a flag. He was again baffled, and when he tried to start a bonfire on the public square the constable came down on him in angry mood again. Somewhat cast down but not entirely discouraged Brinn got three or four drinks of whisky down and then entered a church where religious services were being held. The preacher had just closed and the congregation were getting ready to sing. The lone patriot stopped them by a gesture, and raising his voice he said: "Fellow Citizens!—Seems as if 'ere wasn't patriotism nuff'n town to load a fire cracker! Anybody who wants to see a good dog fight come up to my house, an' we'll jest make this day 'owl!" Two deacons led him out and a constable walked him to jail. As he was being locked up the culprit said: "Mr. a patriot?" "I should think you were!" replied the jailor. "Yi saved the country?" "Yes." "Mi the only patriot in Detroit?" "Yes." "Then I want to be shot afore I lonesome myself to death," continued Brinn. The jailor wouldn't shoot him, and using his comforter for a rope the patriot strangled himself, being found dead the next morning.—Detroit Free Press.

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co of East Portland. After the close of business of 1875 fully endorsing it, after using it one entire season, and as a proof of its substantial worth they say they now contemplate putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day. Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory, I can supply these dryers at a cost of from $2,000 to $4,000 according to capacity. Warranted to dry from 8 to 15 bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel. These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supersede all other known machines. I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor. I also have invented a Peach Parer that is on an entirely new principle paring soft as well as hard. Does its work well with great speed and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner, and at a great saving in quantity of fruit.

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan. 4th, 1876.

MR. W. S PLUMMER—Dear Sir: As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can. Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country. The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 8 (eight) bushels per hour. The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any, though perhaps not as much bleached as the "Alden" Fruit, and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the "Alden." The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements for next season. We will further say that we believe that by an improvement made by the patentee in the Heater and Pan that there will be an increase of capacity and a saving of Fuel.

H HANSON President,
J S NEWELL Secretary and Superintendent

EAST PORTLAND Dec 13 1875.

MR. PLUMMER—Dear Sir: I have been watching both the Alden and your Fruit Dryer the past season so as to determine which was the best Machine for drying Prunes. I visited the Alden Dryer at Oregon City, and examined the Prunes dried on that Machine and I have also examined several lots dried on your Machine at East Portland and my opinion is that your Dryer is far the best Machine for drying Prunes. My reasons are these: your Machine dries them without bursting or cracking while I noticed that a great deal of the fruit dried in the Alden Machine was burst open, and after a Prune is bursted in drying it is worthless for market as a Prune therefore I can recommend your Machine for drying Prunes or anything else. Yours truly

PORTLAND Jan 10 1876

MR. W S PLUMMER—Dear Sir: The Dryer purchased by us from you for the purpose of drying our Onions has now been in operation two months and does good work. All those that have tried the product pronounce it the very best quality. Yours truly

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables

946 ACRES four miles southeast of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Reed donation claim on which I raised the present year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of onions raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre grain weighed and ground chained by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem.

2,700 ACRES of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette river for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they ever expect to realize again.

THE DARK CELL

THE [illegible] PHYSICAL MENTAL AND MORAL RESULTS OF THE DARK CELL

In [illegible] Eastern Penitentiary says a Philadelphia paper dark cell treatment is only resorted to in the most obstinate cases. The last annual report shows twenty applications in a criminal population of 700 and more.

"You will bear in mind that under the laws which govern the commonwealth neither the lash nor the paddle can be applied to obdurate prisoners" said our informant.

"Does the same man undergo such treatment often?"

"The cases are very rare of a double application. One does generally suffice."

"What is the usual effect mentally, morally and physically?"

"Mentally I never noticed any; neither have I physically. Morally it has considerable. When a prisoner once undergoes such treatment he rarely desires to try it again. A man once conquered by dark cell treatment is [illegible] for his full term."

"Is it always so effective?"

"I have never known it to fail. I remember that some years ago when I was [illegible] connected with our prisons there was a murderer brought from one of the interior counties to the Eastern penitentiary. He was a colored man of excellent physique but brutal in the extreme. The crime he had committed was most atrocious in its character, and that he was not convicted of murder in the first degree was simply owing to cowardice on the part of the jury. He had been incarcerated but a few hours when he attempted to rule the prison. He grossly insulted his keeper and announced that he intended to do just as he pleased. In order to discipline him he was put on bread and water diet but with no good result. Then the dark cell treatment was resorted to. For two days he bore it bravely. At the beginning of the third he sent for the chaplain and desired to know what such treatment meant and how long he would be compelled to undergo it."

"Until you submit to the rulings of those who have you in charge and resolve to conduct yourself decently" replied the chaplain.

"How long will that be?" asked the culprit.

"That depends on yourself," answered the chaplain.

"Well, nobody ever conquered me yet" said the prisoner, "and nobody's going to do it now!"

"Very well" said the chaplain "perhaps you'll think differently before many days roll round." Forty-eight hours more passed, when the prisoner sent for the warden.

"How much longer am I to stay in this place?" he inquired.

"Until you resolve to obey the rules which govern this institution. When you apologise to your keeper and promise to comply with all our requirements you shall be released."

"Suppose I don't do that, what then?"

"Then you will remain just where you are."

"How long will that be?"

"You are sentenced to twelve years, and unless you [illegible] as I have said you will spend every hour of those twelve years in this cell, unless you die in the meantime. The matter rests entirely with yourself."

"Well I tell you that you can't conquer me this way."

"Very well" said the warden and the interview ended.

Three days more passed and the warden was again sent for.

"I have come to terms" said the prisoner "[illegible] as you learn."

He then apologized to his keeper, promised obedience and proved a most exemplary prisoner ever afterwards. This was one of the longest applications of the treatment that I ever knew of in the Eastern penitentiary. Physically or mentally it had no visible effect. In fact, I have never known of any case of injury resulting from the treatment. Our dark cells are different from many others. In the Eastern penitentiary the dark cell is formed by placing a covering over the sky light of an ordinary cell. In the Auburn N. Y. prison the dark cell is nothing more than a stone box. The floor is formed of a single slab, and walls of masonry. The cell is three feet wide, six feet high and six feet long. There are two doors, one of iron and the other oak, with no openings. A sprinkling of sawdust half an inch deep covers the floor and a gill of water and four ounces of bread for the allowance for twenty-four hours. Such a mode of treatment may be imagined. The reports of the prison show that about one half the insane cases at Auburn have resulted from such treatment. In our penitentiary the prisoner is allowed all the water he wants and from half a pound to a pound of bread a day.

WHY THE CHINESE COME OVER.—The masses of the people are very poor. It is with them a severe struggle for existence. The average wages of mechanics and common laborers for a day's work of 12 to 14 hours is 10 to 20 cents but Chinese mechanics skilled in our trades are paid by foreigners 2 [illegible] a day. The cost of European or American living here is one third less than it is in the United States. Chinese living of the commonest sort but the best that can be afforded by the masses does not on an average exceed [illegible] a day. A wealthy Chinaman does not expend more than $5 or $6 a month [illegible]. The result is a great deal of destitution and suffering among the masses. There is much begging [illegible] about the temples and in the streets of the old city. [illegible] notwithstanding the terrible cruelty of [illegible] inflicted for crimes [illegible] robbery from the person [illegible]. There are many rich Chinamen [illegible] they are not inclined to works of charity. They hold and hoard. There is no [illegible] system of charity [illegible] are supposed to take care of [illegible] necessary that government [illegible] only temporary. The [illegible] hospital is a government [illegible] the most conspicuous charity.

[illegible] New York [illegible] the city and feeling that the day should [illegible] rejoicing and [illegible] to fire off an anvil. A [illegible] stopped him. He then [illegible] at the second [illegible] warned him to quit. Brian wandered around for awhile and then attempted to run [illegible] to the top of the old liberty pole in place of a flag. He was again bullied and when he tried to start a bonfire in the public square the constable came down on him in angry mood again. Somewhat cast down but not entirely discouraged Brian got three or four drinks of whisky down and then entered a church where religious services were being held. The preacher had just closed and the [illegible] were getting ready to sing [illegible] stopped them by a gesture and raising his voice [illegible]

Seems as tho' there wasn't patriotism enough in this town to load a fire cracker. Anybody who wants to see a good dog fight come up to my house, an' we'll jess make this day 'owl'!" Two deacons led him out and a constable walked him to jail. As he was being locked up the culprit said "Ain't I a patriot?" "I should think you were!" replied the jailor. "I've saved the country!" "Yes." "An' the only patriot in Detroit?" "Yes." "If I want to be shot 'fore I lonesome myself to death" continued Brian. The jailor wouldn't shoot him and using his comforter for a rope the patriot strangled himself, being found dead the next morning.—Detroit Free Press.

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co of East Portland. After the close of business of 1875 fully [illegible] it after using it one entire season and as [illegible] to substantiate what they say they now [illegible] putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day. Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory I can supply these dryers at a cost of from $200 to $400 according to capacity. Warranted to dry from 8 to 16 bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel. These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supersede all other known machines. I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor. I also have invented a Peach Parer that is on an entirely new principle, paring soft as well as hard, does its work well with great speed and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner, and at a great saving in quantity of fruit

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan 4th, 1876.

MR. W S PLUMMER—Dear Sir: As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can. Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country. The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 8 (eight) bushels per hour. The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any though perhaps not as much bleached as the Alden Fruit and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the Alden. The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12 000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements for next season. We will further say that we believe that by an improvement made by the patentee in the Heater and Fan that there will be an increase of capacity and a saving of Fuel

EAST PORTLAND Dec 13 1875

MR PLUMMER—Dear Sir: I have been watching both the Alden and your Fruit Dryer the past season so as to determine which was the best Machine for drying Prunes. I visited the Alden Dryer at Oregon City, and examined the Prunes dried on that Machine and I have also examined several lots dried on your Machine at East Portland and my opinion is that your Dryer is far the best Machine for drying Prunes. My reasons are these: Your Machine dries them without bursting or cracking while I noticed that a great deal of the fruit dried on the Alden Machine was bursted open and after a Prune is bursted in drying it is worthless for market as a Prune therefore I can recommend your Machine for drying Prunes or any thing else. LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Fair and Depot at Salem all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables

910 ACRES four miles southeast of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Ree[illegible] donation claim on which I raised the present year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre grain weighed and ground [illegible] by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem

2,700 ACRES of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette river for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landings all along the river [illegible] north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette valley [illegible] purchased by a colony. To be sold from $10 to $[illegible] per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages on more favorable terms than they ever expect to realize again
